EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

THE President has rheumatic pains and a bad cold.

PITTSBURG boasts of a colony of ten genuine Greeks.

HENRY M. STANLEY, the famous African explorer, will lecture in Williamsport sometime in January.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT, the defeated Republican candidate for Mayor of New York city, was recently married in London.

SOME people say that Cleveland's message is free trade. We suppose it is like most Democratic documents; it can be taken either way.

IT is plainer than ever that, whoever 'Doc" Wilson is, he is a reckless follow who boasts of having sold his birthright as an article of merchandise.

NEW YORK fools are now jumping off the East Riiver Bridge for $25 a jump. This depression in prices threatens to destroy the whole industry.

SECRETARY ENDICOTT asks congress to give him an assistant secretary of war because the labors of the office have become too much for one man to attend to.

HENRY WARD BEECHER boldly declares that "we have anarchy in our midst." Well, we couldn't have it in a worse place. A little peppermint might relieve us.

THE Christian Temperance Union have already criticised Mrs. Cleveland for attending a dinner given for ladies alone by Mrs. Whitney, where many wines were used.

THERE is more bitterness of feeling between Horizontal Morrison and Abram S. Hewitt. Each insists that the other knows nothing about tariff reform, and both are reasonably correct.

WILMER D. CARLISLE, a young man of 18 years of age, living in Williamsport, committed suicide Friday morning by shooting himself in the temple with a revolver. The cause of the rash act is unknown.

IT has been proven that Mr. Benton, the man who was reinstated by President Cleveland, really criticised the administration while Mr. Stone did not refer to it at all. But poor Stone is a Republican.

THE last session of congress was nine months long. The present one will be only three months. If it shall do only a third as much work as the last it will require the aid of a strong microscope to see the result of its labors.

STATESMAN Frank Hurd, of Ohio, appears to have reconsidered his rash resolve to start a Free Trade paper in Toledo. It is such flashes of wisdom on Mr. Hurd's part that lead us to suspect him of having a great head.

DURING a battle between French soldiers in Africa and a band of natives, King Sama Lombefol, of Cayar, was killed. The King was engaged in a sword combat with a French lieutenant. The death of an African king doesn't seem to be of much account.

NEW YORK continues to grow in population, buildings and wealth. It is estimated by the board of health that it contains now 1,500,000 souls. There have been built the present year up to November 1st, 3,704 new buildings, at an estimated cost of $53,119,000, or $14,500 each on an average.

THE French ministry have followed the usual custom of resigning merely because the party they represent was defeated in the Chamber of Deputies, last week, by 13 votes. A new ministry must be formed. What a foolish fashion it is to make a complete change in the Government for such a slight pretext.

EZRA D. PARKER, ESQ., of Mifflintown, who died of apoplexy on Friday evening, was one of the most eminent lawyers at the Juniata county bar. He was prostrated by the stroke while in the yard of his residence at 8 o'clock Friday evening and lay there twenty minutes, exposed to the severe weather, before he was discovered.

Amusements in New York.

For amusement, gaiety, and brilliancy in social circles Paris has for a long time been regarded as incomparably in advance of all other cities; but for the last ten years New York has made surprising progress in this direction, and if it does not excel it is certainly equal to the French metropolis.

We have now in New York over two hundred places of amusement. Of these, there are probably fifteen or twenty of higher grade, or character, than any equal number in any European city.

The Metropolitan Opera House, located on the corner of Broadway and 40th street, is the grandest place of amusement on this continent. It was projected by some of the most eminent and wealthy citizens of this city, and constructed under their personal direction. James A. Roosevelt, Esq., is President of the Company, and Wm. K. Vanderbilt, Esq., is Chairman of the Building Committee. Among the directors are Levi P. Morton, Esq., Wm. H. Tillinghast, Esq., and others of equal prominence in social and financial circles Though this is an institution of public amusement it is managed with the same care and capacity that would be given to any great commercial or financial enterprise. The staff having immediate control of the building and who manage the details of all exhibitions is most efficient and competent. G. R. Chipman, Esq., is the Treasurer, and H. M. McLaren is the Cashier and Treasurer of the present staff.

The Opera Season for 1886-87 commenced on November 8th, and will extend over fifteen weeks. It is proposed to produce fifteen different operas, the most beautiful and popular, and for their effective representation have been engaged the most distinguished artists of Berlin, Stuttgart, Dresden, Nuremburg, Bremen and New York.

The Orchestra at this place is the largest in the city, composed of eighty musicians; and for stage management and effects, and magic beauty of scenery no other Opera House in America is equal to this.

We take special pleasure in commending the Metropolitan Opera House to such of our readers as may visit New York. It is certainly one of the leading attractions in this great and grand city.

We are now having one of the most singular shows ever seen in the heart of a big city. "Buffalo Bill," the Hon. W. F. Cody, has planted his great exhibition of the "Wild, Wild West" in the Madison Square Garden, and is drawing immense crowds. "Extremes meet" by this entertainment surely, for western border life, in the most realistic manner, is brought and put down in the very centre of eastern civilization. However this show affords a great deal of instruction with its "big Indian" amusement. Besides it presents an easy opening for the dime-novel-reading young America to witness the blood-curdling scenes of frontier life so vividly depicted in their books, and in which it has been the height of their ambition to participate.

The painting of "Christ before Pilate," by the great and distinguished Hungarian artist, M. De Munkacsy, is now on exhibition in this city. This picture was a surprise to the artists of all Europe In delineation of form and expression it has no equal in any modern work of art; and in the conception of what that trial, which stands alone in the world's history, really must have been this picture is the sublimest interpretation ever placed upon canvas. There are thirty-three figures in the painting and they are all life-size. The artistic skill—the genius displayed in this great painting, and above all the soul-sentiment which seems to halo the form and face of the central figure, the Christ, the Saviour of the world, can never be embodied in human language. It is no wonder the Rev. Dr. Talmage exclaimed when standing entranced before this most wonderful work of art: "It is worth a thousand sermons as a moral lesson."

This famous painting was visited by over two millions of people in Europe, and we trust that a still greater number will be permitted to see it in America.

The theatres, Wallack's, the Casino, the Standard, the Lyceum, the Grand Opera House, and all the other first-class places, enter upon the winter season with more than usual prospects of success.

There is one thing that can be said to the praise of New York ladies and gentlemen,—they are quick to recognize and appreciate talent, and generous in rewarding it. With the increase of wealth comes the increase of patronage to art. Whether the claim is made by the decorator, the painter, the sculptor, the author, or the actor, it is all the same acknowledged and honored in the most liberal manner.

HIRAM TORREY.

It Meets.

Monday was not a day of unmixed blessing. Indeed, what might be termed by some a great calamity befell this country in the assembling of the last term of the 49th congress. The meeting of this body is always attended with a train of evils, though perhaps the congress of the United States is not as black as it is painted. One great failure of many recent congresses is the tardiness of legislation during its earlier stages, and the consequent rash haste which characterizes its disposal of measures just before adjournment. There is no reason why measures cannot be disposed of in a dignified way. Discussion of questions should be limited. It should be sufficent, as in debates on ordinary questions, to permit certain persons to discuss the pros and cons of a question and is entirely unnecessary for every member or even a large portion of them to be heard in every discussion. The present method merely occupies time without adding any new wisdom or argument.

It is with feelings of an entirely inexplicable nature that we hear Carlisle, Morrison and others of that ilk announce that they will again discuss the tariff and attempt a revision. The mere mention of such a proposal presages much time wasted, because it is certain that the elections just passed tended to weaken many members who might have partially favored a revision, and the next congress will be more than ever opposed to any revision unless it looks to greater protection. The tariff should be left severely alone this year.

The President's message, about to be launched upon an inoffensive public, is somewhat of an affliction. Every man should read it, but few do. There is the certainty at present that if it is written by the President it will not be in any sense a statesman like document, and the chief interest centres in the peculiar phraseology he may employ. We do not remember that he has even uttered any sentiments worthy of perpetuation, but his word-combinations will be quoted often for years to come.

Not much can be hoped for the 49th congress. The Fiftieth organization of that body may be an improvement.

A Disgrace to England.

The Lord and Lady Colin Campbell divorce trial in England is the most disgraceful affair of the kind of which we have ever read or heard. We do not believe that any similar event in America ever proved the source of such shocking, disgusting revelations. We suppose the columns of the newspapers of England are filled with the foul stuff and entirely too much of it is cabled across the Atlantic. We notice, however, that one or two newspapers, whose enterprise has never been questioned, give but very brief accounts of it. Notable among these is the Philadelphia Press, while its rival, the Times, which does not usually elaborate in its narration of news, displays the bad taste of printing almost a column of the stuff daily. The conduct of the former is most praiseworthy.

The revelations already made prove positively that neither Lord nor Lady Colin Campbell are respectable people. They are not fit to mingle in polite society. Their actions are a disgrace to the entire British peerage and to the government itself.

THE people of Providence, Rhode Island, are excited over a circumstance in that city which concerns Philip L. Moen, a millionaire citizen, and "Doc" Wilson, a well known character. We have not read the newspaper reports of it at all carefully, but we believe that "Doc" Wilson has carried on a sort of a black mailing scheme, making Mr Moen his victim. Exactly in what his influence over Moen consists, people do not understand. The latest allegation of Wilson is that he is a son of Moen, but persons who say they know all about it aver that he is not. Wilson has already compelled Moen to pay him $300,000. There is no telling when or how this ten days' sensation will be cleared up.

IT is stated that the majority of the county treasurers in the state have failed to make the annual return of the state tax to the treasurer's department. The total amount due from delinquents, is $293,377. Several treasurers have made partial payments.

The Message.

The message communicated by President Cleveland to the Congress of the United States on Monday is a straightforward, matter-of-fact document in which there is an entire absence of much of the pretentious language for which he is so notorious At this writing (Tuesday afternoon) we have not seen the message complete, the reports giving only its substance, with much of the verbiage omitted. The document treats of American labor and the readjustment of revenues in a way quite different from his former deliverances on these subjects. He says that any readjustment must be such as will not injure the laborer. Heretofore we have regarded Mr. Cleveland as a pronounced free trader; this makes him a protectionist.

He does not treat the case of Mr. Cutting in Mexico with sufficient severity. He comments on the action of Mexico in the premises without that severe censure which should characterize his utterances. His civil service pretentious continue very fair, but unfortunately his actions do not accord therewith. We believe he entirely omits any mention of the Mormon question. Perhaps he believes that Miss Kate Field can manage that subject without Presidential aid. But the fact remains that it is a foul blot on the escutcheon of our fair Republic, and the President should instruct Congress to use the best efforts for its suppression.

When we receive the message more in detail other comments may be made in reference to it.

Making Rapid Progress.

There are few communities in Pennsylvania that have kept pace with this town of the beautiful fountain in its real and substantial growth and prosperity, especially that which has marked its recent career. Beginning with the completion of the nail works, the resuscitation of the glass works and the completion of the Nittany and Lemont Railroad, it has kept onward steadily but conservatively. The glass works survived the shock of fire and were reared rapidly from the ashes and now are nearly completed, double the former capacity and importance.

The Buffalo Run railroad is completed and the increase of business from it is already felt, but not at all in comparison with what it will be sometime. The capital which this paper strove for ten years to attract hither has come and great iron furnaces are being erected. Blessed as Bellefonte is with a delightful location and healthful climate; with all modern conveniences, such as steam heat, electric light and telephone, people from all parts of the country can come here and find pleasant homes. A great opportunity awaits some one who will utilize the car works buildings for some kind of a manufactory. There is more need now than ever before for a new railroad depot building. The year 1887 should bring both of these.

A Musical War in St. Louis.

Theodore Thomas, the most celebrated orchestra leader in the world, is something of a tyrant. He exhibited his tyrannical qualities last week in St. Louis. Madame Fursch-Madi, one of the finest vocalists in the world, was singing, acting the part as she sang. She stepped backward on the stage as an appropriate movement at the time, and in doing so fell over a table which had been placed there by Stage Manager Hock in opposition to her direct wish. The lady was angry and pushed the table as far from her as she could sweeping from the stage. Her anger found vent in tears. Theodore Thomas, who imagines that every one must submit to himself, declared this an insult to the musicians under his charge. In consequence of this rupture of cordial relations Madame Fursch-Madi did not appear for several nights thereafter, and she and Mr Thomas do not speak as they pass by. We consider that the Madame has privileges on the stage even if Mr. Thomas does happen to be there at the same time. Her temporary anger at such poor stage management was justifiable. It is worthy of note that the Madame has since appeared and scored a great success. She has the sympathy of the St. Louis public. The end is not yet.

THE New York Sun candidly admits that Blaine would beat Cleveland in New York in 1888. Many other politicians are of the same opinion. But it is not likely that Cleveland will be the nominee—his party have had enough of him already.

Another Mask Removed.

Charles B. Morton, editor of the Augusta Age, has been appointed commissioner of navigation. His appointment removes another mask from Cleveland which for a long time he wore successfully. During the campaign of 1884, Mr. Morton surpassed all others in the publication of stories slandering Mr. Blaine. That he did not then receive an appointment was credited to Mr. Cleveland's manliness, it being said that he would not take advantange of the occasion to promote his opponent's worst enemy. Cleveland permitted this construction to prevail without explanation. The present appointment shows that Cleveland's reason at the time for not appointing Morton was only because he feared the Republican Senate would not confirm it. He now sees the Republican majority is only one or two, and believes that the recent snub offered by Edmunds to Blaine will influence the former to favor Morton. It was at least dishonest for the President to take credit for manly motives to which really he had no right.

The Great New York Dailies.

So rapidly has the New York World been gaining upon its contemporaries in the field of New York journalism that the managers of those publications have been put to their wits' end to keep peace with it. For instance, we are told that James Gordon Bennett, the manager of the New York Herald, what at one time was the leading newspaper of the Metropolis, withdrew from the fashionable world and immured himself for ten days in his editorial den to accomplish a change in his paper and to infuse new life into it. He remained there only ten days and then departed for Europe.

Every expedient is made use of to boom their publications and to make the people read them. High prices are paid for articles prepared in an original style. The news editors and reporters are instructed not to use any forms of expression ever before employed. A novel and graphic style is what is sought after, and the reporters on the New York papers excel in it.

PREPARATIONS are in progress for the celebration in Philadelphia next September, of the centennial anniversary of the framing of the constitution of the United States. The Telegraph says that "the arrangements promise one of the most impressive demonstrations ever seen in an American city. The assistance of the general government is assured. The equally-to-be-desired co-operation of the 'original thirteen' states was assured in the organization of the commission by which affairs have been brought to their present satisfactory stage. The governors of the colonial states have united in this enterprise with a heartiness very gratifying not only to Philadelphia but to national pride. No trace of local or sectional selfishness has been shown, the sole object having manifestly been to make an emphatic record of what is justly held to be an event of fundamental interest and importance to the republic." The fitness of selecting Philadelphia as the scene of this celebration is emphasized by the fact that the convention which framed the Federal consitution sat in that historic city.

Blaine Stock still Ahead.

THE recent action of James G. Blaine in his conduct towards Mr. Edmunds has not injured him in the opinion of the people of Vermont. A canvass of the members of the Legislature of that State was made since that event and 101 of 145 members declared Blaine their first choice.

Of course, the legislatures do not nominate or elect the President, but they understand and are representative of the wills of the people. It can be safely said that if the people of Vermont do not care to resent any seeming discourtesy to the gentleman who is popularly supposed to be her greatest citizen, the people of other communities will not attempt to do so.

MISS LILIAN KEYES, of Yorkers, N. Y., has been appointed post-mistress. Assemblyman E. R. Keyes first received the appointment, but he died two days thereafter, and, quite appropriately, his mantle fell upon his daughter, who wears it gracefully. Miss Lilian is said to be pretty. The salary is $2200 per annum and she has the appointment of five clerks. She began her duties on Monday. The appointment gives satisfaction.

GENERAL NOTES.

Augusta, Ga., merchants have formed a Knights of Labor assembly.

Oranges are being shipped North in large quantities from Florida.

Mrs. Emma Nevada Palmer is said to be a prominent figure in Parisian society.

The total loss by the fire at Brockton, Mass., Friday night is estimated at $220,000.

Some New Yorkers are preparing to establish coffee houses upon the model of those in London.

It was snowing at Memphis, Tenn., Friday night, and up to 11 o'clock it was fully 4 inches deep.

Louisville, Ky., is bragging about "the first snow storm of the season, which arrived there on Monday.

A wild negro has been discovered in the swamp near Sumterville, Fla. No one is able to catch him.

An iron tower 440 feet high will be erected in London to commemorate Queen Victoria's jubilee.

Miss Winifred Davis, daughter of Jefferson Davis, has written a magazine article on "The Lost Cause."

Some hunters near Lebanon, Pa., shot into a tree at what they thought was a coon and brought down a wild cat 6½ feet long.

It is estimated that at least 25,000,000 false teeth are manufactured annually. Of this amount London alone manufactures 10,000,000.

Two thousand yards of flannel have been given to the aged poor of Derry, N. H., this fall, according to the bequest of the late Sylvian Brown.

A girl in the Savannah telephone exchange answered 1,923 calls in 8 hours, and said "hullo" every time before shifting the plug for a new circuit.

Fisher, the Meadville saloonist, who had a 32-caliber bullet shot in his face, about 10 days ago, is as well as ever, though the bullet is yet in his head.

The Kansas, Nebraska & Dakota railroad was completed to Topeka, Kansas, on Friday. The road is now finished from Ft. Scott and trains will be running shortly.

November is declared by the Signal Service observer at St. Paul, Minn., to have been colder in the Northwest than the average of the same month for 22 years by 2½°.

In a good number of places in Anderson county, Tex., over twice as much cotton has been gathered as was calculated at the beginning of the season, and the weed is still growing and producing bolls that are steadily maturing.

In Boston the other day an ambulance was sent to take the body of a man who was said to have fallen dead on a street-corner to the morgue, to await identification. Upon being laid out at the morgue, however, the supposed corpse shook itself up and called for whiskey.

Emperor William has requested the artists of Berlin to modify their programme for their proposed fetes on the nineteenth anniversary of his birth. There will be no public demonstration, as it is understood that the Emperor is desirous that the day be passed quietly.

Theodore Tilton, who writes Paris letters for a Boston paper, has been describing at great length a visit to the Cafe de la Regence, the Mecca of all chess players. The place is famous for its landlords and its patrons, who rank among the distinguished chess players of the world.

A Sonoma, Cal., hunter saw a deer under a small madrona tree 200 yards away. He fired and missed the deer, but hit the tree about 6 inches above the animal's head, knocking off a splinter 4 inches long that struck the deer's head with such force as to penetrate the skull and cause instant death.

There are 42 college graduates on the staffs of the 6 leading newspapers of Boston. Fourteen colleges are represented, Harvard sending 17 of her sons, Yale 5, Dartmouth, Wesleyan and Boston College 3 each, Williams and Colby 2 each, and Bowdoin, Amherst, Tufts, Cornell, Trinity, Brown and the University of Michigan 1 each.

The Bonapartists of the Jerome group are thinking of adopting Prince Louis Bonaparte, younger brother of Prince Victor, as the heir-apparent to Prince Napoleon, because he has been a dutiful son, has open and engaging manners likely to render him popular, and resembles more distinctly than Prince Victor his illustrious great uncle.

A Deadwood justice of the peace was called upon to marry a young couple, and did so with his accustomed sangfroid. Hardly an hour had elapsed before a female friend of the new-made bride came and explained that the latter had been married to spite a lover with whom she had quarreled, and had since made up the tiff, and therefore desired to be divorced. She could not be accommodated.

James C. Biddle Cope, of Philadelphia, is an American citizen who has obtained the title of "Marquis" in Italy. The Philadelphia Common Council was asked last Thursday to pass an ordinance "granting permission to the Marquis James C. Biddle Cope to lay a pipe across Commerce street," etc The title offended the democratic Councilmen and they passed the ordinance only after the word "Marquis" had been stricken out wherever and whenever it appeared. Served him right.

A clergyman of Providence, in a recent address on the propriety of doing the right thing at the right time, said that when he was Chaplain in the army, at a certain battle he came upon a man horribly wounded, over whom a comrade was kneeling, endeavoring to supply religious consolation by reading a standard catechism to him. The dying man, as the clergyman reached him, was having this heart-searching question put to him: "Who gave you this name?"

Poetry.

JOHNNY HI-HI AND FANNY FOO-FOO.

Fanny Foo-Foo was a Japanese girl,
A child o the great Tycoon;
She wore her head bald, and her clothes were made
Half petticoat, half pantaloon;
Her face was the color of lemon peel,
And the shape of a tablespoon.

A handsome young chap was Johnny Hi-Hi,
And he wore paper muslin clothes;
His glossy black hair on the top of his head
In the shape of a shoe-brush rose;
His eyes slanted downwards, as if some chap
Had savagely pulled his nose.

Fanny Foo-Foo loved Johnny Hi-Hi,
And when in the usual style
He popped she blushed such a deep orange tinge
You'd have thought she'd too much bile,
If it hadn t been for her slant-eyed glance
And her charming wide-mouthed smile.

And oft in the bliss of their new born love,
Did these little Pagans stray
All around in spots, enjoying themselves
In a strictly Japanese way,
She howling a son to a one-string lute,
On which she thought she could play.

Often he'd climb to a high lilder's top,
And quietly there repose,
As he stood on his head and sunned himself,
While she balanced him on her nose.
Or else she would get in a pickle tub,
And be kicked around on his toes.

The course of true love, even in Japan,
Often runs extremely rough,
And the fierce Tycoon, when he heard of this,
Used Japan so oath so tough
That his courtiers' hair would have stood on end
If they'd only had enough.

So the Tycoon bucked on both his swords,
In his pistol placed a wad,
And went out to hun for the truant pair,
With his nerves braced by a tod.
He found them enjoying their guileless selves
On the top of a lightning-rod.

Sternly he ordered the gentle Foo-Foo
To "come down out of there!"
And he told Hi Hi to go to a place—
I won't say precisely where,
Then he dragged off his child, whose spasms
Evinced unusually wild despair.

But the Tycoon, alas! was badly fooled,
Despite his paternal pains,
For John, with a toothpick, let all the blood
Out of his jugular veins;
While with a back somerset on the floor
Foo-Foo battered out her brains.

They buried them both in the Tycoon's lot,
Right under a dogwood tree,
Where they could list to the nightingale and
The buzz of the humming bee;
And where the mosquito's sorrowful chant
Maddens the restless flea.

And often at night when the Tycoon's wife
Slumbered as sound as a post,
His almond-shaped eyeballs looked on a sight
That scared him to death almost:
'Twas a bald-headed spectacle flitting about
With a paper muslin ghost.

TO-NIGHT, MY LOVE.

[SLIGHTLY BYRONIC.]

Like a long draught of rare old wine,
The kisses of thy mouth,
Thy soft, low sigh—so like a sob—
Breaths of the balmy South
One rapturous hour of thy embrace
More worth than weary years,
Without thee, love, oh! life would be
Eternity of tears.

Then silent lie within my arms,
Oh! lean upon my heart,
To-night, my love, we'll happy be,
O God! how soon we part.

One silken curl has blown across
Thy passion-crimsoned cheek,
Thy eyes are like the waves at night,
So dusky, dark and deep.
A mad desire possesses me,
The boon for which I sigh—
To hold thee ever to my heart,
And in thy smile to die.

O dreams so full of wild, sweet bliss,
O dreams so madly vain!
To-night, my love we'll happy be,
Though ne'er we meet again.

Thy milk-white arms, they clasp me close,
Thy warm breath fans my cheek;
What care I for the "Fate's decree,"
For fame, or fortune's freak?
One glance from out thy dusky eyes
Outweighs all other odds,
To-night, my love, we'll happy be,
To-morrow—to the gods!

WOMAN'S TEARS.

The fountain of a woman's tears
Lies closer to her heart than man's
She lives by moments, he by years;
She pities where he looks askance.

First she to act the Christain part,
Keener to feel for grief and pain;
Perchance it is because her heart
Is less a stranger to her brain.

Howbeit—'tis womanly to weep,
And her sweet, sudden tears oft shame
Our better selves from torpid sleep
To win a purer, nobler name.

Dear, tender, tear-dimmed, woman eyes
How oft your tender, pitying tears
Have lifted from us, garment wise,
The pent-up bitterness of years.

How oft your tears in some dark day,
Down dropping, sweet as scented thyme,
On our rough hearts, have kissed away
The stain of some intended crime!

Our Story Teller.

THE GYPSY'S WARNING.

(Continudd.)

She was hastening away with the powder, when I detained her. "You must not speak of this, Elizabeth—to any one. We have no right to do so."

"No, no, Miss Lane, I shall not do so. I know my place better than that."

But the matter had made me feel very uncomfortable. As I went slowly back to Mina, after getting my watch, another fragment of the gypsy's prophecy to Mary lay in mind:

"That which will make you bright and glad
Will make another wild and mad."

Had Adelaide Anson any taint of madness in her constitution? I could not tell. I had never heard so.

It was rather singular that an opportunity should at once occur of my speaking privately to Mr. Anson. All the Challoner family, including little Mina and Miss Anson, went to dine that evening with an aged relative living a few miles off, and when Mr. Anson came in he found me at home alone, sitting on the bench under the lime trees. It was a lovely evening, the sun just setting in a bank of rose-colored clouds. He took his seat by me.

"Was Adelaide ever disappointed in love?" I asked him, putting the question purposely in a jesting tone—after we had spoken a little on indifferent subjects.

"Not to my knowledge," he answered. "What put that into your head, Miss Lane?"

"Because—she acts rather——" and here I stopped abruptly.

"How does she act? In what way?" he said, turning to me.

"She seems to be rather unhappy."

"Does she? What about?"

"There it is—what about. And at times she is strange in manner. Were all her people always right?"

"Right in what way?" he asked, after a pause.

I did not like to answer. It was a task I could not go on with. How could I tell him about the arsenic? yet the wish to do so had occurred to me."

"What I mean is, that Adelaide shows herself at times peculiar, eccentric—and that, you know, Mr. Anson, runs in families. Have you not observed it in her lately?—you have not been blind," I added laughingly.

"Not blind, but very happy," he answered. "Let me tell you something, Miss Lane. In about three or four weeks' time I shall have to start for Germany, and my stay there will be longer than usual. I did not know of it until to-day."

"Well?"

"Well," he repeated, "I don't want to go alone."

His meaning dawned upon me. "In other words, you want to be married first."

"That is it exactly. I hope they will not make any objection."

"It is very sudden. I am afraid there would not be time to get Mary ready."

"Not time—what, three or four weeks!" he exclaimed, with the ignorance of a man who knows nothing of gowns and petticoats. "Why, she could go as she is. She requires nothing but a wedding-dress, and that can't take a month to make."

"Much you know about it, Mr. George!"

"Well, I have common sense. Mary has never been in Germany, and all the sisters and the cousins and the aunts over there would never forgive me if I went without her now."

III.

Objections were over-ruled, and the marriage-day was fixed. Certainly their prospects were very bright. The articles of partnership were signed, and George Anson became an associate of Mr. Challoner. He had taken a pretty house near, and was furnishing it. But they would not be less than six weeks in Germany.

We are all as busy as bees, working at Mary's trousseau. Adelaide seemed to have got over her trouble and worked with the rest. I wondered whether her cheerfulness was real or put on.

The wedding was fixed for the first week in September—a Tuesday. On the Monday, George's brother Edward, and his sister, Mrs. Brooke, arrived from Cheshire, the only two of the family who could attend it. Mr. Anson was ill just then, and his wife would not leave him. As to our bustle indoors, I had never seen anything like it. But then it had not been my luck to be in a house at a wedding before.

It was perhaps significantly curious that when the bright sun, shining through the curtains, awoke me on the Tuesday morning, two of the lines spoken by the gypsy should cross my memory. I quoted them to Mary as we dressed her:

"One love will gladden all your years;
The morning of your marriage nears,"

"I had forgotten about that gypsy," she answered, blushing. "But I am glad the sun shines."

"'Happy is the bride that the sun shines on;' that saying must be true, I think: don't you' Adelaide?" cried Emma. And I turned sharply round, for I had not known that Adelaide was there.

After the ceremony, which went off well—Mary looking most lovely in her white silk and lace and orange blossoms—came the breakfast, and then the departure. The carriage was at the gate to convey them to the station, en route for London. The following day they would travel to Dover, stay there a day or two, and so onward by easy stages to Germany.

Mary, in a gray traveling dress, was seated in the carriage, tears in her eyes and the last adieu on her lips, and George Anson was about to enter it, when Adelaide made her way through the group of us standing around the gate, armed with slippers, and touched George on the arm.

"I have a word to say," she whispered to him; and, obeying the motion she made, he drew aside with her. She looked up at him wistfully.

"Good-bye, George," she said; "remember me always as I am now."

And when the carriage had driven off, we did not know what to do with ourselves. I expect it is the same at most weddings. Some strolled about the garden, some sat indoors; presently the gentlemen went off for a long walk; and as to myself, I honestly confess that, sitting in the shade under the lime trees, soothed by the air and the murmuring sounds of the sweet summer day, I dropped asleep.

"Where's Adelaide?" asked Mrs. Challoner, when I went into the drawing-room, and found them at tea. "I thought she was with you out of doors."

"No, she has not been with me. I have not seen her all the afternoon. I daresay she is resting in her room."

"Emma, go up; tell her to come and have some tea."

But Emma, lying back at full length in an easy-chair, did not seem inclined to stir. I went for her.

Coming out of Adelaide's room was Elizabeth, her face white and scared. "Ma'am," she said, "there's something the matter with Miss Anson. I came in to put the room in order, for there has been no time to do it since the dressing this morning, and I was startled at seeing her lying on the bed. She looks—she looks——"

"Looks what?" I cried, as Elizabeth could not go on for agitation.

"Dead," returned the maid. "She is pale and cold."

"Yes, there lay Adelaide, pale and cold. I bent over her, and the concluding lines of the gypsy came back to me uncalled for:

"The night you sleep upon his breast
She in the arms of death may rest."

And they were followed by the sound of those the woman had said to Adelaide. It was just as though some hammer were beating within my brain.

"Of thyself beware, beware,
In thy madness have a care,
Lest thou Death's white garments wear."

My cries reached the drawing-room, and brought them all out of it. In moments of sharp terror, I have no more presence of mind than other people, governess though I am.

"I do not think she is dead," said Mrs. Brooke, clasping Adelaide in her arms. "But she has taken something. Send for a doctor at once."

All was confusion and excitement for some hours to come. But Adelaide was restored to her senses and to life. The very strictest quiet was enjoined for her. Elizabeth and a nurse were left to watch over her, while I, alone with Mrs. Challoner and Maria Brooke, made to them the communication, which perhaps I ought to have made before—that finding of the arsenic a few weeks ago in Adelaide's chamber.

"It runs in her temperament," said Mrs. Brooke, solemnly. "You do not know it, I believe, Helen,"—turning to Mrs. Challoner—"but her mother, more than once, attempted her own life in an excess of passion. She was a West Indian, and the Anson family were much put out, I have heard, when my uncle Richard married her. She was an only child, an heiress, had always been fearfully indulged, and could not brook the slightest contradiction. She used to keep poison by her; and, as I tell you, she more than once took enough of it to endanger her life. Adelaide must have inherited the mania."

"Why did your mother propose that she should reside with us for a time, Maria?" questioned Mrs. Challoner. "Tell me. I have never clearly understood."

"We thought that it would be beneficial to her," replied Mrs. Brooke. "Adelaide was getting very restless; we scarcely knew whether it was mind or health that was affected; and I had also noticed that she was beginning to pursue George. From a morbid fancy only, as I believe. George saw nothing of it, and suspected nothing—which was fortunate. Altogether, my mother considered that an entire change of scene would be good for Adelaide. She had better come back to us now, and we will watch over her."

And that was the ending, so far as the residence with Mrs. Challoner was concerned. Adelaide returned to Cheshire with Mrs. Brooke. It is some time ago now, but we have heard nothing unpleasant about her, and she writes cheerful, gossiping letters to us all. Maria Brooke, writing also privately, believes that she is permanently better, and

But what I cannot altogether understand is how that gypsy woman contrived to know so much, and to adapt her rhymes so cleverly to Adelaide's case. Maria Brooke said—for I also told her of the fortune-telling—that a gypsy woman, answering to the description, was connected with their old nurse, Betty, Betty's nephew having married her young sister; and the gypsy, respectable in her way, was allowed to come to their house. From the tattling of the servants, who see a great deal more than their masters, the woman may have picked up a notion of Adelaide's fancy for George, and of her wild nature. Whether the woman came to N—— on purpose to seek out Adelaide and have her say, or whether she saw us through the kitchen window accidentally, we could not decide. That she was aware of George Anson's coming was more than likely, and she may have seen in Mary and her gentle beauty a probable rival to Adelaide. As to myself, I concluded that I must have seen her at the house during my fortnight's sojourn in Cheshire, and had retained unconsciously some impression of her face; while she, on her part, may have then learnt my Christian name.

The Elephant Tamer.

"Will the Sahib shoot it as it stands in the stable, or shall we take it outside the kheddah to be shot?"

"I'll shoot it in the stable, jemadar. It would be dangerous to attempt to move it. Maharaja and Sundara could easily drag the body outside afterward. See that the two are ready harnessed to-morrow morning."

"At what time will the Sahib shoot it?"

"About eight o'clock. And see that half-a-dozen men are ready with axes and knives to take out its tusks and to cut off its feet."

"Very well, Sahib. It has been very furious to-day. It nearly killed Soojah, the mahout elephant-driver, as he was throwing a bundle of fodder to it. It chipped a great piece out of one of the posts with its left tusk as it thrust at him."

"Is the tusk damaged?"

"Not seriously, Sahib, I believe. I have not seen it myself; but Soojah reports that a small piece is broken off the tip."

"I would like to see it; the tusk may be cracked."

So saying, Captain Eaton put on his sun-helmet, and accompanied by the old jemadar, stepped out of his office into the elephant-yard.

Captain Eaton was in charge of the government elephant kheddah or depot at Jehanabad. It was a responsible and important post, for there were more than one hundred elephants in the kheddah, and several hundred men were employed as mahouts and fodder coolies and in other capacities to look after them.

Standing in rows in several huge and lofty sheds, supported by ponderous wooden posts, were the kheddah elephants, taking their noon-day rest. They were of all sizes and sexes, from the stately highcaste tusker to the little newly-born calf with its hairy head and short undeveloped trunk. They were all busily engaged in munching their fodder, consisting of great bundles of grass and green leaves and pieces of sugar cane. All were in incessant motion, swaying their bodies backward and forward, shifting their legs uneasily, swinging their heads and trunks, and flapping their ears. Near by sat the mahouts and other attendants smoking, and watching their elephants feeding. As the Sahib entered the yard, they all rose quickly and salaamed to him profoundly.

Having walked through the sheds and glanced at the elephants, and given a few orders to the mahouts, Captain Eaton proceeded across the yard to a small shed in one corner, where, tethered by itself, stood a huge tusker. It was evident there was something wrong with the animal, for its legs were secured by huge chains, fastened to posts buried deep in the ground. A heavy chain was wound round its neck, behind its ears, but the ends had become unfastened and were hanging loose.

"Shaitan," or the Demon, for that was the elephant's well-deserved name, was a peculiarly dangerous brute. During the past three or four years he had killed several men, and had of late become so vicious that for several weeks he had not been taken out of the stable. He was kept heavily chained and was constantly watched. His food was thrown to him from a distance, no one daring to go within reach of his long tusks or trunk. The torn-up floor, the splintered woodwork of the stable, and the great raw wounds on its legs caused by the chains in its struggles showed to what fits of fury it was liable. It was now under sentence of death, for Eaton, having reported that it was unserviceable and also unfit for sale on account of its savage disposition, had received orders to shoot it.

The elephant was of great size; but its long legs, roach back, small head, and other bad points showed it to be a lowcaste animal. It had a pair of long, white, scimitar-like tusks, the points of which nearly touched the ground. It was mottled, especially about the forehead, ears, and fore-legs, with pale flesh-colored patches, giving it a most unpleasant appearance.

As Captain Eaton, followed by the jemadar and some other men, approached, the elephant, which had been restlessly swaying itself backward and forward, stopped for an instant, cocked its ears viciously, and looked at its foes malevolently with its little pig-like eyes. Then it resumed its restless movements, as if unconscious of their presence, nevertheless keeping a sharp lookout for an opportunity of striking at anyone coming within reach. When the captain had approached as close to it as he thought safe in order to examine the injured tusk, the elephant struck furiously at him with its trunk; and as he stepped back to avoid the blow, he heard a deep voice behind him say: "Salaam! Sahib."

LOVE'S FOUNTAIN.

"It is cruel of grandpapa," she said. "It is very cruel, Henri. These old people think only of money. Why can they not let us have peace, when we could be so happy? It is such an absurd idea. You and I to marry each other! We are like brother and sister Nothing can change that."

"But we are not brother and sister," said he, "and even first cousins marry. I have been thinking that—"

"Oh, don't, don't!" she said. "Henri, for heaven's sake, don't begin to be as bad as the rest. Be my dear brother still. It would be frightful for us to marry. Besides, one should fall in love first—should not one? Think how absurd to marry without that!"

"But I like you so much," said Henri. "Dear Cousin Lina, let us think about it."

"I will not," said she. "If you desire to quarrel you can talk about such foolish fancies, not else. Of course you like me; of course I like you, and that is just why it can't be. Grandpapa ought to be ashamed of himself."

She paused a moment, then turned her lips toward her cousin.

"Give me a kind kiss, Brother Henri," said she, "and never, never speak of this absurdity again. As for marrying, I shall never marry any one. Why should I, when I detest the thought?"

Henri gave a little sigh.

"I shall never marry either, Cousin Lina," said he; "but you see we are not brother and sister. You can't make it so by saying so."

Then he kissed her and they walked back into the house, where Grandpapa Kleber and Grand-uncle Michel had just settled the matrimonial prospects of these two young cousins to their own satisfaction.

The result of the young people's rebellion was a quarrel. From that day nothing was heard of Henri for many long years.

The old people were unforgiving. Grandfather Kleber died and left all his money to Lina, who had already refused two excellent matches. Grand-uncle Michel died also, and Lina became yet richer. At last her beloved mother also left her. She long remained Lina Michel, though her beauty and wealth had brought many suitors to her door. The love that she had thought necessary to marriage—the mysterious, wonderful love—had never come to her; and now she believed it never would, for she was 28. But, somehow, ever since the morning when she awoke and found that Cousin Henri was gone her memories of him had grown more sweet and tender every year.

She traveled two years and heard nothing of her cousin Henri, and at last found herself in Paris, at the height of its gay season, and there rested, a dove who had not found her olive branch.

There is no place to dream like a picture gallery; no place like Paris for pictures. Lina Michel spent many hours with her eyes fixed on painted faces that she never saw for the living face that haunted her; but one day she woke to a wondrous interest in a small picture which hung in a small dealer's gallery in which she found herself.

It was the garden of her grandfather's old house at Munich. And this was more than chance. Was there such a thing as magic, or had some artist watched Henri and herself on the night when she made that miserable mistake? For that was Henri, and surely that black-haired girl was not unlike herself.

"Is this picture for sale?" she asked the dealer.

He shrugged his shoulders.

"I think the artist is mad," he said. "This is the first picture any one has wanted to buy, and he refuses to sell it. Perhaps a price sufficient will tempt him; but if I give his address the lady will remember my commission.

The lady promised faithfully to do so.

"It is a wretched street—he is very poor," said the dealer, and gave her the number written on a card. "The fifth floor," he said, with a shrug of his shoulders.

Lina Michel stepped into her carriage and soon, followed by her maid, climbed the dingy dwelling, rapped upon the door that bore the word "Atelier" on it.

In a moment a man with a long beard, who held a palette in his hand, opened the door for her, and stood regarding the apparition of a closely veiled lady, attended by her maid, with some surprise.

"I speak to the painter of the picture at Monsieur——'s," said the Fraulein Michel. "The garden and fountain. I desire to buy it at any price."

"Madame," replied the artist, "I regret to say that picture is not to be sold."

"But I must have it," replied the lady. "I am rich—anything, any price."

"I am poor," said the artist, "but it has no price."

"Listen," said the lady. "It is more than a picture that I want—it is a reminiscence. It is like a—place I know. I beg for it. I implore you to sell it to me."

"Madame," said the artist, "I see you have a heart. I will speak plainly. Long ago I stood with the only woman I ever loved beside that fountain—a fountain in an old garden in Munich. I was a young idiot. I did not even know my own heart; but I do now. I have known it for years. One day the memory of the spot and of the hour returned to me as if by magic. I painted the picture in a few hours. Then again she stood before me. I saw the moonlight on her face. I saw her white hand lying in mine. I saw the whole picture. Never before could I put it upon canvas. I know I never can again. And, madame, while I live I must look upon that picture. When I die I must cast my last glance upon it. I shall never see her again. Long since she has become the wife of some one she loves well, no doubt; but I—I shall never love any other. So I must keep her picture; I must. You see that, madame."

And as he spoke Lina Michel knew Henri Kleber—knew him despite the flowing beard and all the changes of twelve long years.

And as he ceased she threw back her veil and held both her hands toward him.

"Henri!" she sighed, "Henri, oh, Henri, do you not know me?" And then he clasped her in his arms, and she lay sobbing on his bosom.

When they stood beside the fountain in the old garden at Munich again they were man and wife.—N. Y. Daily News.

Our Unstable Globe.

Atlanta Constitution.

The story of the lost Atlantis may be only a story. Our history is incomplete, and covers such a brief period, that we have no record of some of nature's mightiest convulsions. Leaving Atlantis out of the question and accepting the assumption of the scientists that the Creator's work is finished in the Atlantic, the known facts concerning the Pacific are sufficient to convince us that the work of creation is still going on in that quarter. The basin of the Pacific is shaped like a circular bowl, with a well-defined rim, except on the southern side, where it is broken off and the bowl merges into the Atlantic ocean. The innumerable islands cropping out here and there are supposed to be the peaks of a submerged continent. When this lost continent disappeared is beyond the reach of speculation. Dana's theory was that it had two principal mountain ranges, one running from the Hawaiian group through the Mendon, Society and Pearl Islands, and the other running through the Navigators, Fiji, Solomon, New Guinea, Spice, Celebes, Borneo and Sumatra to Malacca.

Possibly this immense area of land disappeared under the waters in one mighty crash, carrying with it millions upon millions of human beings, with a civilization and arts and industries of which we have not the faintest knowledge. Perhaps the land subsided gradually, forcing people to seek the mountains, until finally the great mass fell victims to flood and famine, and only a few survived.

There is nothing strange in all this. If our globe is gradually cooling it must contract, and the outer shell must crack, break up and sink to fit the sinking interior. Such conditions must result in earthquakes and landslips for ages to come. We know that certain coasts are sinking. Islands appear and disappear Within the present century a district 2000 miles square in the Indian Ocean suddenly went down under the water with cities, villages and a large population. The sinking of the Andes 220 feet in seventy years is another significant fact. Altogether we have enough data to shake our confidence in the permanent solidity of this great globe of ours, and we need not be surprised at anything. One thing could reconcile us to these disastrous upheavals. They are all necessary steps in the original plan of creation.

Hairpins and Pendants.

A realistic hairpin is a peapod of frosted gold half open, displaying nine pearl peas. An enameled snail nips one of the peas.

Pendants of diamonds and pearls are in vogue The crescent is the favorite design.

Brooches representing an oyster shell, upon which rests a tiny crab in red enamel, are bizarre fancies of the hour.

Rhinestone jewelry is made in all the newest designs. The fine stones have much fire.

Yellow diamonds are not much sought for. They set off the whiteness of other diamonds and are very effective set alone in gold. Flowers mounted for the hair or as brooches are made in this way.

A pretty novelty is a small mirror pendent from a hook at the waist, with a gold back set with yellow diamonds, A very rich specimen recently seen was suspended by a renaissance chain measuring over four inches in length. Usually the mirrors are but two inches long, and the mirror itself, which turns on a pivot, is hidden when closed within the case. This may be studded with diamonds, pearls, garnets, turquoise, or be of plain frosted gold, as the taste and purse will allow. Tables are made in the same way, with leaves of ivory. A little gold pencil is inserted in a special groove at the side of the case.

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over ten per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $250 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed, and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $[illegible], and that one of our agents [illegible] orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and will be mailed to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure [illegible] for the boom, and go to work [illegible] in our extraordinary offer. We want to have the address of all the [illegible] machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this [illegible] this offer, to send us at once the address of all such they know, and you will be the best chance [illegible] ever had. ## Bill Nye's Boyhood.

If I were a boy again, endowed with the same passion for plucking watermelons in the dark of the moon, writes Bill Nye to the Boston Globe, I would no doubt fall a victim to that overmastering passion as I did before, but, looking at it as I do now, I would be wiser. Boys cannot, however, have the mature judgment of manhood without the experience and the rheumatism that go with it. So it is better that in our childhood we may be able to eat a raw turnip with safety, and know something later on in life.

I notice a great change in myself while comparing my present condition with that of joyous boyhood. Then I had no sense, but I had a good digestion. Now I haven't even the digestion.

The hurrying years have cavorted over my head till they have worn it smooth, but they have left a good deal yet for me to learn. I am still engaged in learning during the day and putting arnica on my experience at night.

Childhood is said to be the most gladsome period in our lives, and in some respects this statement may be regarded as reliable, but it is not all joy. I have had just as much fun in late years as I did in boyhood, though the people with whom I have been thrown in contact claim that their experience has been different. I hope they do not mean anything personal by that.

I do sometimes wish that I could be a boy again, but I smother that wish on account of my parents. What they need most is rest and change of scene. They still enjoy children, but they would like a chance to select the children with whom they associate.

My parents were blest with five bright-eyed and beautiful little boys, three of whom grew up, and by that means became adults. I am in that condition myself. I was the eldest of the family with the exception of my parents. I am still that way. My early life was rather tempestuous in places occasionally flecked with sunshine, but more frequently with retribution. I was not a very good roadster when young, and so retribution was most always just in the act of overtaking me. While outraged justice was getting in its work on me, the other boys escaped through a small aperture in the fence.

All Wool and a Yard Wide.

Texas Siftings.

A woman weighing 369 pounds, wearing her hair cut short, entered the office of the president of the San Antonio Street Railroad Company, and in a voice that was a cross between a bass violin and a boiler soop, said:

"I came here to complain of the driver of one of your cars."

"What's he been doing?" asked the official.

"In crossing the car track I had the misfortune to slip and fall, and I could not get up right away, for as you see, I am not Sarah Bernhart. I'm fat all over."

"Well, what next?"

"The driver of the street car stopped his mule and insulted me."

"What did he say?"

"He said if I would get up and let him drive on that I could sit down again on the car track as soon as the car passed."

"I shall have him reprimanded," said the official.

"Thank you, sir; thank you. I'll patronize your street car line hereafter, that is, if the door is wide enough. Good morning, sir."

"As she passed out, the official remarked to a clerk:

"She may not be 'all wool,' but she is a yard wide."

About the Eyes.

Keep a shade on your lamp or gas burner.

Avoid all sudden changes between light and darkness.

Never begin to read, write or sew for several minutes after coming from darkness to light.

Never read by twilight, moonlight or on cloudy days.

Never read or sew directly in front of the light, window or door.

It is best to let the light fall from above, obliquely over the shoulder.

Never sleep so that on first awakening the eyes shall open on the light of a window.

Do not use the eyesight by light so scant that it requires an effort to discriminate.

The moment you are instinctively prompted to rub your eyes that moment stop using them.

Willing to Pay a Fair Price.

The hotel clerk was studying his chin through a small hand mirror, when a guest said:

"One month, sir, please."

The clerk continued his investigation intensely.

"One moment, sir, if you please," repeated the guest.

And still the clerk's absorbing occupation went on. Finally he turned slowly and said:

"Well, sir, what do you want?"

"I want to buy the earth," said the guest, if you don't ask too much for it."

THE NEW QUININE.

KASKINE

WHAT THE PHYSICIANS SAY ABOUT IT IN

Rheumatism, MALARIA, DYSPEPSIA, NERVOUS DEBILITY, LIVER, LUNG AND KIDNEY DISEASE.

The eminent and celebrated Dr. Giessner writes. The Kaskine Co.—DEAR SIRS—"The first greatest successes I had with Kaskine were in chills and fever, malaria, nervous debility, rheumatism, dyspepsia, and liver diseases, and I considered at that time it was undoubtedly the best medicine ever discovered, but I was even then unfamiliar with its really wonderful powers in curing all the other germ diseases and disorders, particularly where the blood had become diseased or impoverished and the digestion impaired. Strictly speaking, Kaskine is the only blood purifier we have. I use it also very largely with unfailing success in all diseases peculiar to women and children. In over three hundred cases I have cured there has never been the slightest bad effect following its use, and it is far superior to any tonic or nerve medicine ever known to the medical profession." Very truly yours,

L. M. GLESSNER, M. D., 360 East 121st St., N. Y.

Prof. W. F. Holcombe, M. D., 54 East 25th St., N. Y., (late Prof. in N. Y. Med. College) writes: 'Kaskine is superior to quinine in its specific power, and never produces the slightest injury to the hearing or constitution."

The U. S. examining surgeon, Dr. L. R. White, writes: 'Kaskine is the best medicine made.'

St. Francis Hospital, N. Y.: "Every patient treated with Kaskine has been discharged cured.

Bellevue Hospital, N. Y.: 'Universally successful."

St. Joseph's Hospital, N. Y.: 'Its use is considered indispensable. It acts perfectly."

Kaskine is pleasant to take and can be used without a special medical counsel.

Burned to Death.

The Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Times writes:

Early yesterday (Friday) morning the house of a farmer named Powley, situated a half mile from Pennsylvania Furnace, Huntingdon county, was burned to the ground with all its contents. The family had not yet arisen when Mr. Powley was awakened by smoke in his room, and, bounding from his bed, he was horrified to find the rear end of the house in flames.

Snatching up two of the younger children and shouting lustily for the others to follow, Mr. Powley dashed down the flame-bound stairs. When he reached the yard he put the children in a safe place and started to enter the house again, when the stairway suddenly collapsed and the frantic father found his efforts to reach his children baffled. Just then he heard some one calling from one of the upper windows of the house and, looking up, he saw his oldest son holding one of the smaller children in his arms as though undecided whether to jump or not. At the command of his father, however, he hesitated no longer and made the leap. Both children alighted without being seriously hurt.

Then a horrible discovery was made. The baby had not been taken out! But it was too late. The whole edifice was now a seething mass of flames, and it was impossible to approach, much less enter it. Another horrible discovery was made soon afterward. A boarder named Barr, who slept in the portion of the house where the fire seemed to have originated, was missing and must surely have been a victim to the flames.

The night was bitter cold, and those who had escaped from the fiery element were now at the mercy of the cold They were barefooted and clad only in their night garments, and as everything else had been consumed they were compelled to walk, thus exposed, through the snow to Pennsylvania Furnace, where they told their awful tale of woe and were kindly taken care of by residents of the place. The feet of one of the children were terribly frozen and the others were cut and bleeding.

Congress will meet to-day.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The second session of the Forty-ninth congress will begin to-morrow. After prayer and roll call each house will appoint a committee to inform the other of its readiness to proceed to business. New members who are to fill vacancies caused by death and resignation will be sworn in. As the roll call of the house requires more time than that of the senate, an opportunity may be afforded in the latter body for the presentation of petitions and memorials and the introduction of bills.

Upon the completion of the formal organization a joint committee will wait upon the President to inform him that a quorum of each house is assembled and that congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make. The President's annual message will then be read and after its reading the formal announcement in the senate of the death of Senator Pike and in the house of the deaths of Representatives Beach and Arnt will be made, followed immediately by adjournment in respect to the memory of the deceased.

Successful Burglary.

CHILICOTHE, Ohio., December 4.—Night Watchman Schwartz was quietly passing along Market street in Waverly about 1 o'clock this morning, when he was approached by two men, who stated that they were employed in operating a steam shovel on the Scioto Valley railroad. While he was politely explaining to them how to reach the point they desired, a revolver was thrust under his nose the astonished official, gagged and securely bound, was conducted to the interior of Emmit's bank, the door of which had been forced, and there tied in a chair. He witnessed the entire operation of blowing open a small safe, from which about $2,000 was taken, and saw the robbers depart with their booty.

After they had left he managed to get the gag out of his mouth and yell "Fire!" and "Bloody murder!" until some one heard and released him. He is confident that he can identify the men if they are taken.

An Opera House Burned.

WASHINGTON, D. C., December 5.—Herzog's opera house was burned this morning. It was built by the Young Men's Christian Association, but for a few years past was used as a theatre building. Loss, $150,000; insurance, $75 000.

The fire is believed to have been due to incendiarism on the part of a discharged employe or to gross carelessness of the firemen. James West, colored, is missing, and is supposed to have perished in the flames.

A Cave-in Near Pittston.

WILKESBARRE, December 4.—A cave-in took place at Fairmount colliery, at Cork Lane, near Pittston, to-day, which caused great excitement. Three dwelling houses went down with a crash and were completely demolished, the inmates barely escaping with their lives. The cave-in covers an area of one and a half acres, the surface having settled some fifteen feet. The cause of the accident is attributed to the robbing of pillars in mine underneath.

Justice Paxson Married.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Dec. 1.—Justice Edward M. Paxson, of the supreme court, and Mrs. Mary Martha Stopp Bridges, widow of the late Congressman Samuel A. Bridges, were married this evening at the residence of the bride, Rev. J. F. Pollock, of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Many distinguished guests were present.

Summary of the President's Message.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Cleveland introduces his message with the statement that few questions have arisen during the year with other governments, and none of these are beyond the reach of settlement in friendly counsel. He regrets the cruel treatment of inoffensive Chinese in some of the far western states, in violation of our treaty with China.

Negotiations, he says, relative to Canadian fisheries troubles, are pending with reasonable hope of an early and acceptable conclusion, which will result in the continuance of friendly relations with the inhabitants of Canada, which friendship has been seriously threatened of late. The president directs the attention of congress to the recommendations contained in this and the last report of the secretary of the treasury, touching the simplification and the amendment of the laws relating to the collection of our revenues, and expresses the hope that in the interest of economy and justice to the government they may be adopted.

The ordinary receipts of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1886, were $336,439,727; of this amount $192,905,023 was received from customs, and $116,805,936 from internal revenue. The increase from customs over the previous year was $11 434,084, and from internal revenue $4 407,210. A falling off in other resources reduced the total increase to $13,749,020 The total ordinary expenses of the government for the year ending June 30 1886, were $342,483,136, a decrease of $17 789,797, leaving a surplus in the treasury at the close of the fiscal year of $93 956,588 as against $63 463,771 at the close of the previous year. The receipts to October 1, and estimates for the remainder of the year, indicate a surplus of $90,000,000 at the close of the present fiscal year.

He says that a sound public policy requires a readjusting of the burdens of federal taxation.

Due regard should be also accorded in any proposed readjustment to the interests of American labor so far as they are involved. Such an arrangement of government revenues should be adopted as shall reduce the expense of living, while it does not curtail the opportunity for work nor reduce the compensation of American labor and injuriously affect its condition and the dignified place it holds in the estimation of our people.

Farmers and agriculturists are, perhaps, more directly and plainly concerned than any other of our citizens in a just and careful system of federal taxation. Then he recommends an amendment to the revenue laws, and renews this suggestion that there be a suspension of silver coinage.

He says that the affairs of the post-office department are encouraging.

After referring to the navy, which he does not seem to consider very efficient, he alludes to the steamship carrying trade as follows:

The differences which arose during the year with certain of the ocean steamship companies have terminated by the acquiesence of all in the policy of the government approved by the congress in the postal appropriations at its last session, and the department now enjoys the utmost service afforded by all vessels which sail from our ports on either ocean and a service generally adequate to the needs of our intercourse. Petitions have, however, been presented to the department by numerous merchants and manufacturers for the Argentine republic, and for semi-monthly dispatches to the empire of Brazil, and the subject is commended to your consideration.

The president endorses the recommendation of the attorney general for the erection of a penitentiary for confinemet of prisoners convicted in United States courts. He considers it a matter of very great importance which should at once receive congressional action.

He recommends the appointment of a commission to look after the welfare of the Indians.

The President says. I recommend the repeal of the pre-emption and timber culture acts, and that the homestead laws be so amended as to better secure compliance with the requirements of residence, improvement and cultivation for the period of five years from date of entry, without commutation or provision for speculative relinquishment I also recommend the repeal of the desert land laws, unless it shall be the pleasure of the congress to so amend these laws as to render them less likely to abuses.

He says the pension laws are about right, but that there are a few needy cases which cannot be properly provided for by them.

The continued operation of the law relating to our civil service has added the most convincing proofs of its necessity and usefulness. It is a fact worthy of note that every public officer who has a just idea of his duty to the people testifies to the value of this reform. Its staunchest friends are found among those who understand it best and its warmest supporters are those who are restrained and protected by its requirements.

The President.

WASHINGTON, December 4.—The president was somewhat worse to-day. He absolutely refused to see anybody and never left his home. It is a bad case of rheumatism, and is in his left leg. The probability is that he will be laid up indefinitely. A doctor was consulted to day and recommended that he submit to a regular course of treatment. The weather is unfavorably to his early recovery. His heavy weight makes it impossible to get around without suffering great pain.

Will Cause Coal to Advance

PHILADELPHIA, December 6.—The sudden appearance of cold weather last week caught the shippers of coal over the Schuylkill canal unawares. The result was that when the canal froze over there were nearly 100,000 tons of coal consigned by that route which are yet unshipped. A large portion of this will have to be sent over the Reading road, which will entail an additional expense of 15 cents per ton for freight.

A Tragedy in a Hotel.

MEMPHIS, December 6.—Thomas Dalton, a young man well known in this city, was shot and killed this afternoon in the rotunda of the Peabody hotel by Russell Godwin, son of the most prominent cotton manufacturer of this city. Godwin refuses to make a statement. The alleged causes leading to the tragedy were scandalous rumors circulated by Dalton wherein his name and a married sister of Godwin's were connected.

Wrecked by Ice and Wind.

BOSTON, December 7.—Many disasters to vessels of the coasting fleet and great suffering are reported as the result of Sunday's storm all along the coast east of Boston. While the loss of life was not heavy, the damage to the shipping interests was very large, and the intense cold, together with the blinding snow, caused fearful suffering. The schooner Savannah struck the rocks off Marblehead and is a total wreck. The men abandoned her, and after a terrible experience reached the shore in a small boat. Said her master, Captain Atwood, while thawing out his badly frozen ears and hands: "That was the roughest night I ever experienced. We were drifting through a rough sea and thick snow, which blew about in a furious storm, when about 11 o'clock we ran into a shoal. We got off and rode well with two anchors until they began to drag and we struck a ledge. We took to our little boat, and after a hard battle for life we were picked up when nearly frozen to death and ready to give up."

Further down the coast at Old Orchard, the storm drove the fishing schooner Nellie Florence on to the beach after drifting about for three days. The crew of five men were in a pitiable condition when rescued. Being in the habit of making trips of but one day they had no provisions on board save a few crackers and some potatoes. For three days they had managed to live on this diet, served very scantily, with nothing to drink, as they had not a drop of water. They were badly frost-bitten, nearly famished, and without a cent of money when taken in and cared for by the residents of Old Orchard. The schooner is a total loss.

A dispatch from Hull says that a steam collier, which was lying in Nantasket roads, dragged her anchor this morning and went ashore on the east end of Pedock's Island. No particulars have been received. Captain Blauvelt, of the steamer Dominion, reports that at 4 p. m. yesterday, three miles northeast of Boston light, he passed a sunken wreck which appeared to be that of a schooner of about 250 tons. Her top mast stood fifteen feet out of the water.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., December 7.—The two masted schooner John T. Long, of New York, came ashore at 4 o'clock this morning, nearly opposite Life Saving Station No. 3, between Seabright and the Highlands of Navesink. The surf was running very high, but the crew of the station succeeded in boarding the vessel. They found only a dog on board. It is supposed that the crew were swept overboard by the heavy seas. The surf is now breaking over the entire length of the schooner's deck. She will probably prove a total loss.

TORONTO, December 7.—The sudden closing up of the bay by ice has placed several vessels in an awkward predicament. Last night the steam barges Bruno and Niagara stuck in the channel and their crews have been engaged all day in battle with the ice. Three schooners, supposed to be the Laurie, Emerald and Acadia, with coal, made their appearance to day, and fears are entertained that they will be unable to force an entrance through the ice. If they fail their situation will be dangerous.

Important Resolutions.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—In the senate to-day, Mr Morrill offered a resolution declaring that the promise of making any revision of the tariff in a spirit of fairness to all interests and not injure domestic industries appear hopeless and impracticable, and any further attempts at revision by the present congress are to be regarded as inexpedient and detrimental to the revival of the trade and industry of the country. Laid over until to-morrow. Mr. Davis offered a resolution, which was also laid over, directing the committee on finance to ascertain what specific reduction can be made in the customs duties and internal taxes without impairing prosperity and development of home industries or compensation of home labor.

Massachusetts' Municipal Elections.

BOSTON, Dec. 7.—The municipal elections were held here to-day in nearly all the cities of this state. In Taunton, Everett Godfray, citizens' candidate, was elected mayor over Fuller, the bolters' candidate. The board of aldermen stands 6 for license and 2 for prohibition. The license was "yes" 1,231, "no" 810. In Fall River John W. Cummings, democrat, for mayor is elected. The vote on license—"no" 5,360, "yes" 3,266. Haverhill elects as mayor Joseph H. Sheldon, a citizens' candidate. The license vote—"no" 1,314, "yes" 1,213.

Turkey Gives Some Advice.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 7.—The porte has advised the Bulgarian regency to accept Prince Nicholas, of Mingrelia, as successor to Prince Alexander, the reason given is, that his election is "the only means to pacify Bulgaria." The porte admits that the regency must maintain order, "but," it adds, "so long as an opposing element exists which regards the country's interests from a different point of view, the door is constantly open to eventualities."

Two Horrors,

ALGIERS, December 2.—It is reported that the steamship Chandernager, with 1,200 French troops on board, has foundered during a cyclone and that all hands were lost.

LONDON, December 2.—A dispatch from Paris this evening states that the minister of marine says the loss of the transport Chandernager is unfounded.

LONDON, December 2.—Thirty men were instantly killed by an explosion in the Lemore colliery in Durham to-day.

Suspected.

CHICAGO, Ill., December 5.—Henry Schwartz, of Philadelphia, in the county jail charged with bigamy, is strongly suspected of being the man guilty of the daring robbery on the Rock Island express train last March when Messenger Nichols lost his life and $37,000 were stolen. He was a brakeman on that train at the time of the robbery. Schwartz has been spending money with lavish hand.

President Cleveland's Rheumatism.

WASHINGTON December 1.—The President has been confined to his room for two or three days by a slight attack of rheumatism, and has for this reason been obliged to deny himself to all callers except cabinet officers. He is feeling somewhat better to day. The President has suffered from rheumatism before, but this is the first attack he has had since he entered the white house.

Briefs.

WABASH, Ind., December 5.—Late last night Jacob Nagley, a prominent Whitley county farmer, was awakened by some one battering down his front door. Grabbing a revolver, Nagley met the intruder on the door steps and fired at him. The two clinched and in the struggle Nagley's face was disfigured for life, his nose being broken and his right eye gouged out. The intruder proved to be Bill Hoose, a well-known Columbus City character. Hoose is fatally hurt.

LONDON, December 5.—The committee of the Wesleyan conference has sent to the board of bishops of the Methodist church in America and presidents of the conference in Canada, Australia and the West Indies, copies of a circular intimating that the second ecumenical conference will meet in America in 1880. A Wesleyan scientific society has been formed to promote the knowledge of science among its members. The Rev. Mr. Dallinger is president and Rev. Mr. Sprers vice president.

PROVIDENCE, R I., December 5.—Doc. Wilson to-night brought in to the Journal two affidavits from Marinda and Jeremiah Young, of Danielsville, Conn., sworn to before Joseph W. Storm, justice of the peace, and declaring that they were present three weeks before Jonas Wilson's death and heard him make the statement before the doctor that Levi was Philip L. Moen's son. Miranda is Wilson's sister and Jeremiah is her husband.

PHILADELPHIA, December 5.—A collision between two freight trains and a passenger train occurred near Bristol, on the New York line of the Pennsylvania railroad, this morning, but as far as can be learned no one was hurt and travel was delayed but two hours. From meager particulars received here it appears that two freight trains collided and soon after the east bound Pittsburg express came along and run into the wreck.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The following fourth-class postmasters were appointed to day in Pennsylvania: James M. Courson, Broken Rocks; Wm. Hull, Elk City; J. G. Lamberton, Kossuth; M. H. McGovern, Potter Brook.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—A dispatch from Youngstown says: The coal miners at Mineral Ridge were to-day conceded an advance of 10 cents per ton for which they struck a few days since. This is the first concession and the miners are jubilant.

ST. LOUIS, December 6.—William McDonald and Edwin Forrest were arrested last night as they were about dividing the jewelry stolen from E. H. Kartkamps's jewelry store, No. 507 Franklin avenue, last Thanksgiving night.

BOSTON, December 6.—Harvard College gets nearly $500,000 by the death on Saturday of E. Price Greenleaf, an eccentric miser of this city, who lived almost a century. He was a typical miser.

The State Tax Cases.

HARRISBURG, December 7.—The state tax cases were argued before Judge Simonton this morning. The list includes 60 companies, the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company being selected on which to argue the appeals. Those taxed for loans from June 3, 1885, to November 1, 1885, were argued collectively Defendants resist the tax on the ground that the individual holders of the loans had already been assessed for that year. Deputy Attorney General Snodgrass represented the commonwealth and M. E. Olmstead the defendants.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Citizens of "Shingletown" Engage in the Champion Hunting Expedition.

The people in some parts of this country imagine that they know how to hunt and that their locality is the principal hunting field. But so far as we have heard certain citizens of "Shingletown," in this county, have met with the best success.

On Tuesday of last week Isaac and Sam Maritz and Clement Fortney went to capture whatever game should be in that vicinity at the time. It is seldom that people go hunting near Shingletown without securing choice game.

They had not proceeded very far before they came upon the tracks of a bear, which they traced to the bear's wild, romantic home in a cave. These experienced hunters, all alert for the excitement, circled about the cave until the bears should issue forth.

First came a bear of enormous size and weight. He was followed in close succession by three of smaller size. As they made their appearance, one by one, the unerring aim of the hunters laid them low.

In many communities the capture of four bears in a day would be heralded as a great event. But the people of Shingletown do not consider it of much importance. They can go out at any time and do equally well or even better. Indeed, the fact that they did not obtain about a dozen bears on that day and also capture several deer, made them declare it a very poor day's work.

It is very seldom that the people of Shingletown consider it worth while to mention any of their hunting adventures. We might also record, while we are about it, that it was only last Saturday that a gentleman of that place brought in a noble buck, with five-pronged antlers gracing his handsome head. As usual, they were so certain of getting game that they took a wagon along and in less time than it takes to write it brought the deer to town. We suppose the mere announcement of the fact will attract hundreds of hunters there. But they might as well learn of it through this paper as in any other way.

Shingletown was renowned during the war from the fact that almost all her male population, able to carry arms, took part in the dread conflict. She is now widely known for her excellent hospitality. Several of our citizens can testify to this, among them Mr. S. M. Buck, of the machine works. A few years ago he put up a system of water works there and although it works perfectly and never really requires his attention he visits Shingletown occasionally to inspect it, always reaching there at dinner time. On a recent visit his capacity for showing how much he relishes a good dinner was so extensively exhibited that the people who saw him would have rushed in alarm for the Doctor, except for the fact that Shingletown, being such a salubrious climate, no Doctor has considered it worth while to settle near there.

So much for this place. We may relate further particulars in the future. It is unnecessary to state that it is near Boalsburg.

All About a Sledding Party.

WRITTEN BY A UNION-VILLIAN.

MR. EDITOR:—A very delightful sledding party took place from this town (Unionville) on last Saturday. It was gotten up by the young lads and lasses, none of whom are yet in their teens. "Peck's Bad Boy," of course, was a leader in getting up the affair. They hired Homer Stover to take them to Milesburg, for which they agreed to pay him $2,00. But when they reached the place of their destination the young bloods held a caucus meeting, and found, on taking account of their united assets, after deducting possible liabilities, that they could only raise $1.30. On motion, it was resolved to say nothing about this until they were nearly home, which was carried unanimously. The young gallants then left their ladies at Mr. Jacob Smith's, at Milesburg, while they sauntered out to take in the size of the ancient village and supply themselves with a stock of confectionery with which to treat their sweethearts and to have a gallorious time on their way home. Seth Pratt bought four sticks of candy, Willie Rumbarger bought two cents worth of gum drops for himself and lady. Willie Homan laid in a stock of peanuts. Peck Griest invested his spare cash in Blind Robbins. Johnnie Teats squandered all he had left, after paying for his ride, in chewing gum. Lloyd Luse, who lives with Dr. Miller, bought three cents worth of caromels, which he shared with his girl. Having thus replenished their pockets with good things, they returned to their darlings, and after that they had a very pleasant time.

Jake Smith is a jolly good fellow, and he did all in his power for the enjoyment of the young folks. The young ladies were: Ollie VanValin, Katie Smith, Maggie Teats, Mellie Bing, and two or three others whose names the writer has forgotten—all dear, nice little girls.

They arrived home about 6 o'clock, making the welkin ring with their merry voices. Suffice it to say, they enjoyed themseves to their heart's content, and showed by their demeanor that their home training had not been neglected, as they proved themselves to be little ladies and gentlemen. JONES.

The New Railroad and Something about its Probable Route.

This morning the tinkle of the telephone bell called us to a "Hello!" attitude before the instrument and the musical voice of Thos. R. Buddinger, of Snow Shoe, was heard at the other end. His voice is easily recognized among a thousand. It impressed itself upon our ear years ago in the Williamsport high school, when he stood before the blackboard demonstrating a problem in Geometry. But Mr. Buddinger's voice was quickly switched off and Jno. A. Daley's voice took its place. Mr. Daley is the discoverer and founder of the famous region known as Marsh Creek. There was an echo of suppressed excitement in his tones as he talked and it was evident that he had important intelligence to communicate. It sounded just like we have often heard it before, especially when he is called on by the soldiers to tell what he saw and did in the great Rebellion. We feel like asking, "What are you giving us, John?" But we will relate what Mr. Daley said:

Bellefonte, which generally wants the earth, is not going to get the new railroad which our citizens know as the Milton and Bellefonte railroad. A corps of engineers are surveying the route along Marsh Creek. From the Summit the route proceeds past the Devil's Elbow and thence on to its western terminus, to form a link of some great western route. Marsh Creek people have named it the Milton, Marsh Creek and Western railroad. Car shops, so says Mr. Daley, are to be built along Marsh Creek and that region will boom in a few years so that not even the oldest inhabitant will recognize it.

Well, there is one consolation to this view of the subject. Mr. Daley has for some time been afflicted with the Western fever. If the railroad sweeps through his lands and converts him at once into a millionaire, he will conclude to remain in Centre county.

—The Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Times was knocked out in one round with the DAILY NEWS and retires ingloriously from the contest. We are told that he is a big man physically, but he is almost too small to be noticed on paper.

—Two weeks ago this paper published the list of nominations for office made by Gregg Post. The election occurred on Saturday evening, and as there were only two positions for which more than one nomination was made it is necessary to give only the officers chosen for those positions, viz., Chaplain, R. C. Irwin; Delegates to Encampment, S. H. Williams and John Noll.

—The Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A. met on Tuesday evening and transacted business, including the appointment of committees.

SPECIAL MENTION.

The Fountain of Vitality.

The source of physical energy and mental activity, is the blood Let this become vitiated with bile, of thin and watery in consequence of indigestion and non assimilation of the food, and an interruption of the functions of the body, and a loss of stamina, flesh and appetite ensues. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is a tonic specially adapted to restore all three, because it assists digestion and assimilation, and removes bile and other impurities from the circulation. Protected and strengthened with this admirable defensive invigorant, the system defies influences inimical to health, to which, if unregulated and feeble, it would undoubtedly succumb. Constipation, often an obstinate and chronic ailment, is entirely removed by it, the liver, kidneys and bladder roused from inaction, and a tendency to rheumatism effectually counteracted. It also eradicates malarial disease.

Acker's Blood Elixir is the only Blood Remedy guaranteed. It is a positive cure for Ulcers, Eruptions or Syphilitic Poisoning. It purifies the whole system, and banishes all Rheumatic and Neuralgic pains. We guarantee it. WALTER W. BAYARD.

The Approaching Meeting of the Centre County Teachers' Institute.

An impression prevails among some of the teachers of the county that, owing to the illness of Prof. D. M. Wolfe, county superintendent of education, no institute will be held this year. We are requested to correct such a false impression. The institute will be held and promises to surpass all similar previous gatherings in interest.

It will begin in the Court House in this place on Monday afternoon, the 27th inst. As an indication of the attractions which will be offered the teachers and all others who will attend, we will mention the names of a few of the instructors who have been engaged:

First on the list is Prof. Baliet, city superintendent of the Reading schools. The topic of his lectures will be the important one of "Psychology," which is perhaps as important as any that could possibly be given.

Prof. Kemp, of the Keystone Normal School, Kutztown, Pa., will be in attendance to lecture on that truly attractive subject, "Ornithology." It is not too much to say that the pleasure and comprehensiveness of the instruction which has been given in the schools the past year has been greatly increased by the entertaining lectures delivered by Prof. Kemp during the institute of last year.

An instructor who, we believe, will make his first appearance this year is Prof. Shaub, of the Millersville Normal School. We do not know his subject. A gentleman of high reputation from Canada is also expected to be present.

A least one delightful evening entertainment is on the list. It will be given by Mr. Burbank, the eminent impersonator and elocutionist,

A Week of Temperance.

On Friday evening of this week, December 10, Mr. A. C. Rankin, of Pittsburg, will begin a series of temperance meetings in the skating rink. The meetings will last through one week, being held every evening. We have frequently heard of Mr. Rankin's brilliant lectures and believe him to be one of the best on the platform. From many testimonials we select one from the Daily Reporter of Maquoketa, Iowa, as follows:

"A. C. Rankin, of Pittsburg, Pa., lectured to a full house last evening. His lecture was a solid mass of arguments from which facts, as brilliant as diamonds, and as potent as they were plentiful, sparkled like crystals. He brought out many fine illustrations showing how the liquor traffic antagonizes business and the employment of labor."

THE Kentucky element make no secret of the fact that the President has decided to aid them this winter in the passage of the Morrison tariff bill. The Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, as a matter of fact, is not oversanguine over its passage, though in his public utterances he is determined to show no signs of defeat. There is no reason whatever to suppose that the vote will differ much this session from that of last session. If the Republicans and the Randall Democrats choose to to combine they could pass the Hewitt Administrative bill, abolish the internal taxes on tobacco, take off the taxes on alcohol used for the arts and manufactures, and relieve the people of the United States of considerable taxation. It is believed Mr. Randall could secure from sixty to seventy Democratic votes for a bill of this kind.

MR. PIERRE LORILLARD, himself a rich man, writes an article on Socialism to the North American Review, in which he advocates a "limited socialism." He believes that all fortunes exceeding $200,000 should be taxed 10 per cent. He also believes that "oceans, rivers, canals, railways, postal and telegraph systems should be owned by the National Government, for the use of all, at as low a toll as will provide for their proper maintenance." Mr. Lorillard's views are worthy of careful consideration.

THE jury in the United States circuit court, in the case of the National Soldiers' Home vs. General B. F. Butler, at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, decided that the General was guilty of misappropriating funds of the institution while treasurer The verdict was for $16,537.50. Judge Carpenter gave Ben a terrible hauling over the coals in his charge. General Butler appeals from the decision.

WE notice that the Philadelphia Weekly News has illustrated Cleveland as he practices his movements for the reduction of his surplus flesh. In one position his feet are elevated in the air and in another he is raising himself on all-fours with his face downward. Now indeed may the President talk and write of the "ghoulish glee" of the press.

—We have not learned why Francis Speer did not return home from Lewisburg with the rest of the delegates. He waited over until the afternoon train. They say that he visited Northampton and Sunbury and that his experience there can be expressed only in one word—"rich." Francis, please explain.

—We obtained an inside view of L. L Brown's office Tuesday morning and found that the interior has been altered since we were there a month ago Fresh paper on the office occupied by Mr. Rhoads gives it a cheerful air. With new scales and a neat, pretty office business there should be more lively than ever.

GLEASON'S METHOD.

Of Curing Horses of Their Folly—Equine Terrors Subdued by Kindness.

Gleason, the horsetamer, is again giving exhibitions here to demonstrate how much further kindness will go in subduing a fractious animal than a whip. The illustrations are given in a large building formerly used as a rink, and a generous depth of sawdust on the floor prevents injury to the pupil, who gets many unexpected falls when under instruction. Gleason is a man of Buffalo Bill stature and appearance, wearing Wellington boots, buff, snug-fitting trousers, loose woolen shirt, and sombrero hat. At one side of the inclosure is arranged what might be called his school books, consisting of harness, ropes, tin pans, umbrellas, string of sleigh-bells, bass drum, tripping lines—in fact, a regular Baxter street junk shop.

Over in the corner to-night were two vicious brutes that, pending the opening of school, tried to eat down the partition separating them, so as to settle their difficulties then and there. Hostlers, with heavy life-insurance policies, brought out one of the beasts, a magnificent coal-black fellow, and while they pulled on the extreme end of long ropes, the professor went in and fastened straps and other appliances to his subject. When he was in readiness the horstlers cast off their lines, and Gleason, with hitching-strap wound about his left hand, deftly caught the end of the horse's tail as it switched, and in this relation to each other the man and horse spun around in the middle of the ring like a flying dutchman, until the surprised and giddy equine stopped to think what he would do next. Concluding to rear next, he found his hoofs drawn up against the under side of his body, and he came down on his knees, nor could he get up from this position, and he remained with his nose in the sawdust screaming with rage. Making a few ineffectual plunges, he went over on his side and gave up the struggle, and while lying there serenaded by the hostlers with bass drums, tinware, and bells he surrendered completely, and then, divested of all harness, followed Gleason in total disregard of waving flags, pistol shots, and everything else.

The second horse was not so easily conquered, and three diferent times the salvation army had to come to the front before he gave up. The two horses were then hitched to a buggy and were driven around like lambs, even to obeying the driver's direction and going up to a barrel in which firecrackers were exploding, and there waiting under loose rein until the noise stopped.

There was an interval of ten minutes, and then Dwyer Bros.' "man eater," the stallion Panique, was brought in. They paid $17,500 for him, but had to sell him because of his viciousness. He has passed through two other hands since then. Standing in the middle of the ring to-night, wearing a heavy muzzle and with ropes leading away in every direction to hostlers, he made a magnificent picture, and when he would throw his intelligent ears forward it was hard to realize that in private life to feed him one man would have to pound on the stable-door with a club to draw his attention while another man would throw the provender in the window.

The novelty of this position to-night kept him for a time as still as a statue, and the time was improved by Gleason, who deftly and quickly made the straps fast to his head, legs, and body. As the last one was adjusted the horse glanced around, and when he saw how he was rigged up he let go in every direction at once, and for a few minutes the atmosphere was permeated with a sawdust cyclone, in which could be distinguished ropes, hostlers, legs, stallion, coach-whip, and a general mix up of all the horse-subduing accessories. As usual, Gleason won, and the wicked brute, his first lesson acquired, suffered his muzzle to be taken off, and did not try to bite. Before proceeding to the next lesson the professor unfortunately misconstrued a remark made by the owner, who sat in the front row, and, taking umbrage at it, had the muzzle put back on Panique and closed the performance, leaving the horse but half tamed.—*N. ### Frauds in the Coffee Trade.

"I dearly love a good cup of coffee, but until recently found it difficult to obtain one outside of the best hotels," said a Brooklynite to an Eagle reporter. "A few weeks ago I made the acquaintance of a gentleman engaged in the coffee trade in New York, who has since supplied me with the best of coffee beans. My friend has given me a few points in buying coffee which may be of use to many readers of the Eagle. A man who buys coffee ground is a fool. Why? Because in coffee sold in that manner fraud can be easily practiced. Browned bread crumbs are often sold by unscrupulous dealers as coffee. If you have ever purchased coffee in the many retail stores down-town in New York you would find that all the coffee sold was ground and put up in packages. Such firms seldom or never, sell coffee in the bean or roasted. By buying it in the bean one is sure that it is unduluterated, although he may pay more for the coffee than it is worth. But few are able to tell the difference between a 50-cent coffee and a 20-cent coffee. If one buys of a grocer he must rely on that worthy's honesty."

It is very annoying to have a bald-headed barber try to sell you a bottle of his hair elixir.

The First Potato.

In the year 1758, during the war between France and Hanover, a member of the French medical staff was taken prisoner by the Germans. How he cursed his ill luck during a captivity of five years he has hinted in his memoirs. Yet out of his calamity one of the greatest blessings of the human race was born.

The Germans did not waste affection on their French prisoners. They even fed them, for the most part, on certain wretched roots which the peasants raised extensively for their cattle. But while our medical friend—an expert chemist as well as doctor—growled with his comrade at their fare he observed that the little roots were wholesome, not disagreeable to the palate when one got used to them, and they grew in the most abandoned and desolate of soils. So it happened, years afterwards, when the captivity was over, and France was ravaged by a famine so frightful that in some provinces the people ate grass with the cattle to keep body and soul together, that Dr. Parmentier bethought himself of the despised roots which formed his prison fare. Parmentier was a philanthropist as well as a chemist. He wrote a treatise during those terrible months of famine, calling attention to the potato as a possible substitute in emergencies for ordinary articles of food. The literary wits laughed him to scorn. It was a popular belief that the potato was poisonous to man and that it gave birth to leprosy and other hideous diseases. But at that period France had a sensible official at the head of its agricultural interests. This man approved of Dr. Parmentier's treatise, and had it published in the royal agriculture records. More than this, at the doctor's request he conceded him the use of a large sandy plain on the outskirts of Paris which had been used for fairs and parades, as a field of experiment. How Paris shook its sides as it saw this barren, where scarcely a green thing grew, billowing up under the doctor's plows. But the laugh was on the other side a few weeks later, when a sea of greenery displayed itself on that desolate area. In due time came the birthday of the King, Louis XIV, which was celebrated with pomp and flourish at Versailles. Among the gorgeous throng of courtiers came Dr. Parmentier with a basket of pigmy potatoes and a bouquet of the blossoms in his hand. The King smiled graciously. He heard of the cranky philanthropist before. Indeed, it was he who had granted the use of his military field for the experiment. The Queen was pleased to arrange some of the blossoms in her hair, whereupon the courtiers went wild, and dispatched messengers the region over to obtain the coveted blossoms for their mistresses. During the "corner" in the potato blossoms which followed over forty dollars were paid for a single cluster. The people acquired a new taste, and the fortune of the potato was made Modern cultivation has made it what it is to-day. How the world ever got along without it is a puzzle; yet its general use was almost an accident.

The citizens of Montdidier, France, where Dr. Parmentier was born, have recently erected a statue to his honor.

McLean at Work.

Washington McLean is one of the heaviest buyers of real estate in Washington. He evidently has great faith in the future of the national capital. B. H. Warder, of Ohio, a millionaire from Springfield, is a rival purchaser with Mr. McLean. John R. McLean has also large interests there, and for a time intended to make his residence in Washing. The workmen are just completing a large wing to the west of the Fish mansion, which he bought several years ago. John Chamberlain bought this house for him at a cost of $113,500. The wing which is now being added to the house is made up entirely of a large room in which will be found the largest ornamental fire-place in America. It is two stories high and surpasses in richness anything in the Vanderbilt palaces. To ornament this room $25,000 worth of costly marbles from the interior of a Florentine church will be employed. It is intended to be used for receptions and banquets.

It was thought that Mr. McLean would occupy this house this winter, but it now appears that he has gone back to Cincinnati to stay for a time. He may remain there during the winter. His house will probably be rented. He has found that a man who owns a large newspaper property cannot stay away a very long time from it without loss. He is his own managing editor to-day, and has deposed the talented Allen O. Myers, who for several months has been making the Enquirer an out-and-out administration paper.

If we refuse the earnest of our inheritance, how shall we procure the purchase possession?

A Peculiar Case.

A very peculiar case was recently tried at Montrose. Action was brought to recover damages for taking or removing ice from Jones' Lake, near the town. The facts seem to be that D. V. Gardner has for a number of years filled a house near the lake, and during the summer sold the ice to customers in the borough of Montrose. The plaintiff, Roger S. Searle, owns a grist mill not far below the outlet of the lake and uses the water from the lake to run the same.

The plaintiff also owns a portion of the land near the outlet of the lake, the rest of the land belonging to the Post and Jessup surveys. It seems that the object of the action is to obtain damages in order to prevent a perscriptive title to be use arising from a continued use of the ice, or the water absorbed by the same, for the period of 21 years.

It is claimed by the plaintiff that if the defendant can take water from the pond in the form of ice and thereby damage him in the least that he requires a perscriptive receipt by law usage and can therefore remove any amount; and there would be no way to prevent him. The defence held that a riparian owner, or the owner of the land along the banks of a stream or pond, would not suffer any perceptible damage from the amount of water taken or the amount of ice that was shown to have been removed.

A number of fine law points were presented by attorneys interested on the points raised, the plaintiff showing the right of the user to damages, no matter how small the amount used, while the defense denied that there could be any perceptible damage in the loss of water from the amount of water used.

This case having many new points, was very interesting and was most ably tried by A. H. McCollum, and W. M. Post for the plaintiff and W. H. Jessup and E Blakeslee for the defendant. Verdict, six cents nominal damages for the plaintiff.

A Collection of Wet Facts.

English people of both sexes of the average type seem to take to the water as naturally as a duck. The difference is that they delight to disport themselves on the waves instead of in them.

Comparatively few Englishmen, and still fewer Englishwomen, possess sufficient knowledge of swimming to save their own lives if they were suddenly plunged into deep water.

The power of swimming is a far more common accomplishment among men than it was a quarter of century ago. Swimming has shared in the athletic revival which has marked the period.

In the tideless, sun-warmed Mediterranean, in the coral-bound lagoons of the Southern Ocean, or by the grove-clad banks of Burmese rivers, swimming becomes both a luxury and a second nature.

Untrammeled urchins fling themselves from the bows of boats in Malta harbor to dive for and secure the coins flung from the deck of some newly arrived vessel, or disport themselves day after day in the fetid drain-polluted waters of the Dockyard creek.

In Burmah, toddling infants can swim at least as soon as they can walk; and a mother, too busy for the time to look after her youngest born, will cheerfully and confidently place it in the river, to amuse itself with its playmates; and then, when she has leisure, will swim about among the gambolling children until she has found her own and brought it to land.

Every great and commanding movement in the annals of the world is the product of enthusiasm.

Home Evidence

No other preparation has won success at home equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. In Lowell, Mass., where it is made, it is now, as it has been for years, the leading medicine for purifying the blood, and toning and strengthening the system. This "good name at home" is "a tower of strength abroad."

People of Lowell

It would require a volume to print all Lowell people have said in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Mr. Albert Estes, living at 28 East Pine Street, Lowell, for 15 years employed as boss carpenter by J. W. Bennett, president of the Erie Telephone Company, had a large running sore come on his leg, which troubled him a year, when he began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The sore soon grew less in size, and in a short time disappeared.

Jos. Dunphy, 214 Central Street, Lowell, had swellings and lumps on his face and neck, which Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured.

Praise Hood's Sarsaparilla

Mrs. C. W. Marriott, wife of the First Assistant Fire Engineer of Lowell, says that for 16 years she was troubled with stomach disorder and sick headache, which nothing relieved. The attacks came on every fortnight, when she was obliged to take her bed, and was unable to endure any noise. She took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and after a time the attacks ceased entirely.

Many more might be given had we room. On the recommendation of people of Lowell, who know us, we ask you to try for 1886-87.

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton,—several by each author.

A SHORT SERIAL STORY by MRS. BURNETT, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of ST. NICHOLAS.

WAR STORIES FOR BOYS AND GIRLS. Gen Badeau, chief-of-staff biographer, and confidential friend of General Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of to-day took part.

THE SERIAL STORIES include "Juan and Juanita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtney Baylor, author of "On both Sides;" also, "Jenny's Boarding-House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Articles, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy;" "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gauchos," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," recounted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, H. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins J. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S M. B. Piatt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of ST. NICHOLAS is $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc.

THE CENTURY CO., New York.

A POPULAR LITERARY WORK.

The third volume of ALDEN'S "Cyclopedia of Universal Literature," now ready (cloth binding 60c., half Morocco 75 cts), contains 496 pages, and represents eighty-six of the most famous authors of the world, of all nations and languages, including among others: Bossuet, Boswell, Bronte, Brougham, Browning, Bryant, Buffon, Buckle, Burke, Burns, Bourroughs, closing with Byron. There are nearly 300 choice literary selections representing these authors, a truly wonderful amount of entertaining literature for a little money. The following are representative opinions of this work by competent literary critics:

"The third volume strengthens the good opinion formed by its predecessors. The articles, though brief, are remarkably comprehensive, presenting in a few pithy paragraphs the very facts the reader most wishes to know, while the extracts from the writings of the authors described are selected with discriminating taste. We are much pleased with the work. It bids fair to be, when completed, the best cyclopedia of literature in the language."—The Interior, Chicago.

"MR ALDEN'S idea and enterprise in the execution of it should be encouraged generously. He places within the reach of all who read, a good knowledge of the world's literature and of those who have made it, and helps them to form a good literary taste, and to desire literary culture. To know what is for him to read, is the first difficulty of the self-instructor. This cyclopedia tells him, with illustrative quotations. To all it is a complete and reliable guide to the best reading."—Commercial Advertiser, Detroit, Mich.

"The articles are remarkably comprehensive, presenting in a few pithy paragraphs the very facts the reader most wishes to know, while the extracts from the writings of the authors described are selected with discriminating taste. We are much pleased with the work."—Standard of the Cross, Cleveland, Ohio.

The work is designed to be completed in 15 volumes. The publisher offers a sample volume, postpaid, for the nominal price of 35 cents, on condition that within three days after receipt you will either remit the remainder of the price or return the book, in which case your money will be refunded—half Morocco binding 50 cents, on the same conditions. Descriptive catalogue of the publisher's very large list of standard books, sent free. JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 393 Pearl Street New York.

A Crash and a Fire.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 1.—An unusually destructive freight wreck occurred on the Cleveland and Pittsburg railroad, at Summitville, 70 miles from Pittsburg, about 11 o'clock last night. The eastbound freight, No. 16, was running along on schedule time enroute to this city. When near Summitville the first section parted. The two portions were run together again and the locomotive was backed up to make a new coupling. Before the train was ready to pull out and continue on its course, the second section which was following closely, rounded the curve. It was a heavy train and had attained such an impetus that the engineer was unable to check its speed. It crashed into the first section with terrific force. Nearly all of the cars on both of the trains were thrown off the track. The two heavy freight locomotives were hurled over on their sides and in another moment were partially hidden from view by the debris of the broken cars and their contents, which were heaped around them.

A few moments after the wreck occurred the cars caught fire. The flames spread so rapidly that the entire mass of cars, merchandise and locomotives were enveloped by fire. There were no crews at hand to extinguish the fire, and it gradually subsided for want of fuel. The locomotives were so badly damaged as to be rendered useless. Sixteen freight cars and one caboose were destroyed by the fire. Ten of the cars were empty, one was loaded with flour and feed, one with onions, one with fire clay and three with iron ore. A car load of hides was saved from the flames. The trainmen of the first section were out on the track when the collision occurred and they escaped uninjured. The crew of the section also succeeded in escaping unhurt.

Where it is Cold.

MANISTER, Mich., December 1.—During a heavy gale and blinding snow storm, the steam barge Maggie Marshall and consort Arundel went ashore three miles north of Manister harbor at 3 o'clock this morning. Both crews are safe. The vessels belong to Louis Sands. The Marshall was ensured for $16,000; no insurance on the Arundel. The latter has 6,000 bushels of oats aboard and lies high and dry. The Marshall is light and was scuttled to prevent foundering. The vessels will weather the gale without harm. Captain James Ankel, of the Arundel, says that he has been a sailor for many years, but never experienced such a gale as that of last night. The Marshall was manned with four men, the Arundel with six. Efforts will be made to get the oats out of the Arundel. The tug Wright, also belonging to Louis Sands, is a total wreck; loss $6,000.

ST. PAUL, Minn., December 1.—Last evening orders to raise the cold wave signal were received here. This morning the Manitoba wave came over Minnesota and at 6 o'clock the temperature was 10 degrees below zero. This morning at Saint Vincent it was twenty-two below; at Moorehead eighteen below, and at Carry and Bismarck seventeen below. At Brainard last night it was twenty-eight below, freezing over all the swamps and producing an exodus of lumber men from the woods.

The Reading Road's New Move.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The employes of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad and Jersey Central, with the different divisions of the system, are intensely excited over circular notices which have been sent to them individually annulling their annual passes and prohibiting their living at a distance from the place of work. The orders apply to every man in the employ of the roads in the system including clerks engineers, conductors, trainmen of all kinds, mechanics and even to laborers.

The orders are considered a great hardship by the men, many of whom are poorly paid and live in suburban villages along the road. They cannot afford to pay rent in the cities. The engineers, it is said, have determined to call upon their order of locomotive engineers to aid them. The other employes are Knights of Labor and are said to have called a meeting of their local assemblies in Jersey City to-night to discuss the situation.

Hit Very Hard.

NEW YORK, December 2.—The steamer Westerland from Antwerp, which arrived here to day, reports that on November 27th she encountered a terrific hurricane, during which an immense sea struck the vessel over the bows, staving in the turtle back, killing four seamen and two steerage passengers named Gabriel Livadiri and Max Frank and more or less injuring fifteen other seamen and passengers. The deck was crushed in and buried the unfortunates beneath a mass of wood and iron debris. The water swept along the gangways of the main deck carrying persons with it. The crash was terrific, but before the appalling nature of the accident was realized by the passengers the officers of the ship had all the men available engaged in the work of rescue.

The injured were carried to the intermediate cabin, which was transformed into a hospital, where their injuries were attended to. An inspection of the vessel afforded some idea of the terrible blow she had received. The crushed deck was known as the forward whale back. It was constructed of four-inch pine planks, resting upon massive iron beams. These in turn were upheld by three-inch iron rod stanchions. The vast volume of water struck the whale back about fifteen feet from the stem and crushed in a section twenty-nine feet in length and extending the whole width of the steamship. Nine beams and sixteen stanchions were crushed in upon the forecastle deck, where the victims were gathered. It will cost $5,000 to repair the vessel.

A Fast Life Tempted Him to Steal.

CHICAGO, December 2.—The Inter-Ocean this morning says: The most sensational as well as the heaviest defalcation which has taken place in Chicago in many years, probably during its commercial history, has just been brought to light. Miner T. Ames, the millionaire coal merchant, is the victim, and Theodore S. Mize, his confidential book keeper and cashier, and secretary of the Chicago and Musonk coal and coke company, at No. 142 La Salle street, is the perpetrator of a robbery that is estimated at $100,000 and may exceed that amount. From his position as bookkeeper, cashier, confidential clerk, and secretary of the coal company, Mize had absolute control of the moneys of the company and the private funds of Mr. Ames.

Mize is one of the best known men in local business circles, having a very extensive acquaintance, and has also been one of the most popular men of his set. He was a member of the Union Veteran club and the Apollo club, being a singer of much ability. Mize is handsome, stylish and talented, but in this case it is the old story—wine, women and ruin. His employer, Mr. Ames, had known him from infancy, being an old friend of the young man's father, Edward Mize, formerly of Akron, Ohio, but now living in this city. Theodore has been in the employ of Mr. Ames since 1872. Within a couple of years from the time he entered Mr. Ames' employ he began a systematic course of robbery, covering up his dishonesty by false entries upon the books and by other schemes. At first his stealings were comparatively small, but he soon began operations on a more extensive scale, and of late years it is rumored his speculations reach the sum of $1,000 in a single month.

Twenty-six Families Burned Out.

CLEVELAND, O., December 3.—At 11.15 o'clock last night fire was discovered in a barn in the rear of 15 Bergen street. An alarm was at once turned in, but owing to the large amount of snow on the ground and the severe storm that was prevailing, the steamers were a long time reaching the fire. When they arrived No. 15 and three adjoining tenement houses were wrapped in flames. The four houses were occupied by 26 families, consisting of over 100 people, who soon appeared in the street in scant clothing, exposed to the fury of the storm and driving snow. From the houses across the street and on either side of the fire the people ran in haste. Some carried bundles of clothing while others carried blankets and bedding. A man and woman were seen to leave one of the burning buildings dragging a big feather bed after them. They left the bed in the middle of the street and attempted to reenter the house, but were stopped. On the bed was found a babe sound asleep, which was restored to its parents. Another babe was found in a bundl of blankets that was being kicked about.

The scene was one of indescribable confusion until the people were reassured by the firemen and persuaded to enter their houses. At midnight the fire was brought under control, having been confined to the four tenements and the stable in the rear, where four cows and a horse were consumed. The sufferings among the people who lost their homes is very great. A few were taken in by neighbors, but many sat on bundles along the sidewalk and bemoaned their hard fate. They are mostly Bohemians, Poles, and Russians, with a few Hungarians. The aggregate loss is probably $15,000; insurance light.

Stricken with Paralysis.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Mrs. John Davis, the second daughter of the late secretary, Frelinghuysen, and wife of Judge Davis, of the court of claims, has become a hopeless invalid. She has never recovered from the injuries received by being thrown from a drag at Lenox, Mass., last summer. It was thought, after her return to Washington, that her recovery would be rapid and certain. The other day Mrs. Davis felt so well that she thought she would try to walk down stairs with assistance. This was her first attempt to walk since her injury. She had taken but a few steps when she fell from a stroke of paralysis. The physician in attendance does not think Mrs. Davis will ever be able to walk again, but at the same time her general health will probably be good, so that she may live for years, but will always have to remain in a reclining position. This sad fate of a lady who was so prominent in society under the last administration, has created great sympathy throughout Washington.

Confessed Everything.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., December 2.—A H. Ellwood, mail agent on the Grand Rapids and Indiana road between here and Cincinnati, was arrested at the post-office in this city this morning by Inspectors Bassett and Kidder. Ellwood is charged with systematically robbing letters, and seventy five marked bills were found in his possession. He confesses everything, and acknowledges peculations to amount to $2,000. Ellwood's home is at Silver Creek, Ind., where he has a wife and three children. He was appointed four years ago, is 50 years old, a veteran soldier, and in poor health. He says he was led to steal by financial straits, and for fear of leaving his family unprovided for.

Briefs.

WASHINGTON, December 3.—Representative James, of New York, has secured the endorsement of various prison reform associations and philanthropic organizations for his bill to establish a national penitentiary, and will endeavor to secure its passage this winter.

BRUSSELS, December 3.—A prominent citizen of Brussels has sent to the public prosecutor an accusation against two residents of this city, implicating them in the robbery of the mail car on the Ostend express on Saturday, November 27.

SPRINGFIELD, O., December 3.—All the brakemen on the Ohio Southern railroad between this city and the Jackson coal mines, went out on a strike this morning.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec 3—Amgno the appointments made to-day was that of A. E. Lewis, of Pennsylvania, to be deputy to the fifth auditor of treasury; and Charles A. Gant, postmaster at Irwin, Pa.

ST PAUL, Dec. 3.—The Dispatch's St. Cloud (Minn.) special says Arnold's flouring mill was wrecked and burned by an explosion last night. Loss, $60,000; insurance, $15,000.

Danes to Emigrate.

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—A syndicate of Danish capitalists has been formed to assist the emigration of small farmers whom the hard times have compelled to sell out, and to rear a colony somewhere in the far northwest, where they may begin life again under conditions offering material guarantees of success as well as security from the tricks of the land shark.

Consumption Cured.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetation remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after testing its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human sufferings, I will send free of charge, to all who desires it, this reciept, in German, French or English, with full direction for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block Rochester, N. Y. 18 11 1y

According to an exchange, Thomas Stevens has made himself famous by his trip nearly around the world on a bicycle. We had often wondered what fame really was.

I bought medicine in thirteen states, but nothing helped me till I got Ely's Cream Balm. In four days I could hear as well as ever. I am cured of catarrh as well. It is the best medicine ever used.—Garret Widrick, Hastings, N. Y.

I could scarcely speak; it was almost impossible for me to breath through my nostrils. Using Ely's Cream Balm a short time the trouble entirely disappeared.—J. O. Tichenor, Shoe Merchant, Elizabeth, N. J.

A lovesick citizen of Honeybrook, Pa., committed suicide by eating peach pie and washing it down with chloroform. This mixture of poisons soon settled him.

An End to Bone Scraping.

Edward Shepherd, of Harrisburg, Ill., says: "Having received so much benefit from Electric Bitters, I feel it my duty to let suffering humanity know it. Have had a running sore on my leg for eight years; my doctors told me I would have to have the bone scraped or leg amputated. I used instead three bottles of Electric Bitters and seven boxes Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and my leg is now sound and well."

Electric Bitters are sold at fifty cents a bottle and Bucklen's Arnica Salve at 25c. per box by J Zeller & Son.

Customer (entering a notion store and pointing out an article)—"What is that for?" Obliging clerk (continuing to read a newspaper)—"That's for sale."

Thousands of cases of Consumption are cured every year by Acker's celebrated English Remedy. It is a guaranted preparation; if it does not help you it will cost you nothing. Try it. A single dose will show its good effect. Trial bottles 10 cts. WALTER W. BAYARD.

It is estimated that there are one hundred thousand sufferers from hay fever in the United States; a number about four times greater than the regular standing army. This number could be reduced to a mere regiment if all would resort to Ely's Cream Balm.

UTTERLY DISCOURAGED

expresses the feeling of many victims of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica and nervous or sick headache. Having tried numberless so-called remedies, and physicians of all schools, without relief, there seems to be no hope. Many such have as a last resort tried Athlophoros, and to their surprise and joy have found that it was a safe, sure and quick cure. Athlophoros is not an experiment; thousands have been cured by its use and they testify as to its value.

Shekomeko, Dutchess Co. N. Y. Aug. 20, '86

I took Athlophoros according to directions; it caused a ringing in my ear that was not pleasant, it operated on my heart causing a slower and fainter throb, and constipated my bowels. When the last dose was taken I did not think much of the medicine; the next day my lameness was better, and continued getting less until it left me. My lameness was in my back, shoulders and neck, and had been for eight months. I was advised to try Athlophoros by my neighbor, Wm. Jackson, who had taken a bottle of it for a severe attack of lameness in his shoulder and arm. He said "it drove the lameness right out of me; my head felt strong, and my heart almost stopped beating; I thought I would die, but I came out all right, and have not had any lameness since." AMON BRIGGS.

Phelps, N. Y., August 13, 1886.

I am a practicing physician; I prescribed Athlophoros in a case of inveterate rheumatism of the right shoulder and arm. This case had been of weeks standing—yes months—and resisted medicine carefully selected, also the use of electric treatment. One bottle removed all the trouble. The case remains well, now over a year since using the medicine.

G. C. PRICHARD, M. D.

Every druggist should keep Athlophoros and Athlophoros Pills, but where they cannot be bought of the druggist the Athlophoros Co., 112 Wall St., New York, will send either (carriage paid) on receipt of regular price, which is $1.00 per bottle for Athlophoros and 50c. for Pills.

For liver and kidney diseases, dyspepsia, indigestion, weakness, nervous debility, diseases of women, constipation, headache, impure blood, &c., Athlophoros Pills are unequaled.

There is more CATARRH in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years Doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure now on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly upon the blood and mucus surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address,

MANHOOD

How Lost How Restored

Just published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence, or sexual extravagance, &c.

The celebrated author, in his admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

—Several snow squalls Wednesday night.

—D. L. Zerby, of Millheim, killed a 547½ lb. hog the other day.

—The Y. M. C. A. rooms are brightly illuminated in the evening.

—Yarnall postoffice, near Howard, has been temporarily discontinued.

—The morning mail east is frequently late since the cold weather began.

—The punils of the Academy indulge in a spelling bee every Thursday afternoon.

—The postoffice in Clearfield county, named Clearfield Ridge, has been discontinued.

—A debating society will be organized in Penn Hall to be conducted during the winter.

Ex-District Attorney J. D. Hicks, of Blair county, attended Centre county court last week.

—Thirty-five persons have been converted since the beginning of the protracted meet in Boalsburg.

—It is said that the Bohemian oats investments are now reaping their fruits, but it tastes like sour grapes.

—George S. Snyder, of the firm of Snyder Bros., founders and machinists in Williamsport, died suddenly on Thursday.

—The literary folks in Millheim are making desperate efforts to organize a society with the object of practicing speeches, debates, etc.

—Mr. Harvey Searson of Boalsburg had one of his arms crushed recently while engaged at his duties as brakeman on the Beeck Creek railroad.

—Mr. John Sheets, of Wolf's Store, is disabled in consequence of striking his foot instead of the wood with an axe while chopping wood a few days ago.

—Rev. Fischer, pastor of the Lutheran church in Centre Hall, is the composer of numerous pieces of sacred music, some of which are considered among the best extant.

—Remember the Fountain on Saturday. It will be chuck full of stories and all kinds of interesting readiny, but will contain nothing of a questionable character.

—We are pleased to hear that Mr. Adolf Loeb is not "quite ill," as the local of Friday stated, but that he is improving, and soon we hope he will be as well as ever.

—A protracted meeting is now in progress in the Methodist church located in the attractive town of Howard. The meetings are well attended and much interest manifested.

—John Patton Lyon, at one time connected with Pennsylvania and Huntingdon furnaces, died last Friday at his residence in Allegheny, at the age of 71 years.—Tyrone Herald.

—The Philipsburg Ledger goes for Dr. Peebles, pronouncing him an "itinerant fakir, one of the worst old frauds that ever descended on our town and a quack of the most gigantic order."

—While Bishop Rulison has been making his present trip through this part of the State his residence in South Bethlehem, Pa., was partially destroyed by fire. This will hasten his return home.

—Bond Valentine's new overcoat is about as well suited to afford protection from the cold as any article of the kind we have seen. It is heavy, shaggy, well provided with pockets—in brief, a typical garment.

—Rev. W. H. H. Snyder, the new pastor of the Reformed church, arrived from Harrisburg Thursday evening to take up his abode here. We understand that he has been in Harrisburg 21 successive years.

—A party of sportsmen from this county are now hunting in Huntingdon county. Isaac Marts, of Harris township, is a member of the party. A day or two since he shot and killed a huge bear and the party afterwards captured three of her cubs.

—Some unhung villian shot the valuable Scotch collie dog belonging to A. G. Curtin, Jr., on Curtin street, about 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning. Mr. Curtin will pay a liberal reward for information that will lead to discovery of the offender.

—The Lock Haven Daily Democrat says that P. Gray Meek, of the Democratic Watchman, is an applicant for the position of bank examiner, now held by Mr. Drew, of Philadelphia. Samuel J. Randall and Chairman Hensel are pushing Mr. Meek's claims.

—Rev. Charles T. Stock, of Bedford, who is well known here, has been tendered a call to the pastorate of Zion Evangelical Lutheran church, at Hollidaysburg. This gentleman is often confounded with "our own" Rev. Charles T. Steck. They are both very able ministers.

—The excellent confectionery with which all the stores which deal in that sweet article are being supplied seems to be sufficient in quantity to make all Centre county as sweet in disposition as possible. There is perhaps no article offered for sale which is more attractive to children and the quality of what is sold never exceeded in its tempting respects the present supply.

THE LAWYERS' LOVE FEAST.

A Meeting of the Bar Association.

GENERAL BEAVER PRONOUNCES HIS VALEDICTORY AND HIS LEGAL BRETHREN BID HIM A REGRETFUL THOUGH COMPLIMENTARY FAREWELL.

A meeting of the Bar Association was held on Thursday afternoon at which there was a representative attendance of lawyers, including Democrats and Republicans about equally balanced. These opposite elements, which a little more than a month ago were contending with all the vigor and eloquence with which Nature and Blackstone endowed them, mingled and embraced each other on this occasion in a manner lovely to behold and truly affecting.

A committee was delegated to hunt up General Beave, the Governor-elect, and when that gentleman was found he was requested to tell his legal brethren how much he regretted to leave their delightful company to become the Governor of the wealthiest State in the Union. He expressed his sentiments in that frank and straight forward manner characteristic of him, and none can doubt that he really regrets the temporary separation from the scenes with which he has been so long and intimately connected. Those who made addresses congratulating the General and regretting his separation were Judge A. O. Furst, Major J. L. Spangler, Col. D. H. Hastings, Col. D. S. Keller, W. C. Heinle, D. F. Fortney, J. G. Love, J. W. Gephart, Aaron Williams, C. M. Bower and Clement Dale, Esqs. Hon. John H. Orvis presided as chairman of the meeting.

His partner, J. W. Gephart, said that in his long association with the General there had never been a disagreeable word or a misunderstanding between them. He instanced particularly the General's kindness to and interest in young men. Aaron Williams said he had neither opposed nor aided the General, being away from home during the campaign. C. M. Bower was honest enough to confess that he opposed the General and favored the "son of his father." However, among Republicans, General Beaver was his choice. Clem Dale told of his initiatory experience in settling an audit with Judge Furst and General Beaver as opposing counsel; how he favored Gen. Beaver's views and ever since had maintained a pleasant familiarity with the General.

Judge Orvis said that he had known General Beaver for twenty-one year; is glad he is Governor even if he is a Republican; believes Republicans are honest men if they are consistent; and ended by hoping that the Governor may have an excellent administration.

The Winter Weather.

The early arrival of cold weather of great severity indicates a long winter before us. Persons possessed of good health welcome the severe cold and rejoice in it, but there are many to whom it is exceedingly unwelcome.

We may confidently expect that December, January and February will be ice-bound months. Over the vast fields of snow and ice the cold winds will sweep, keeping the mercury hovering in the vicinity of zero or below it. The pleasures it brings are peculiarly exhilarating. There are no diversions more agreeable than sledding parties when the snow is crisp and hard beneath, the air frosty and sharp and the bright moonlight rendering the country almost as light as day and exposing the fields of glistening snow which stretch away an indefinite distance in all directions. The royal feasts and the lively dances which follow accord with the musical strains elicited from the piano and violin. How fortunate it is that in winter time the day light delays its coming. It would render the hours of pleasure much briefer. The party can forget the flight of time until 5 or 6 o'clock a. m. and still return home in the breaking darkness.

After February the weather will be more fickle. A few days of sunshine and partial heat will indicate the approach of summer. The blue birds will sing, but not until the latter part of May or the first of June will that genial heat prevail which is so agreeable to many people.

Events of 1887.

The almanac for 1887 gives a few items of general interest: New Year's day comes on Saturday; Washington's Birthday on Tuesday; St. Valentine's day on Monday: April Fool day on Friday; Memorial day on Monday; Fourth of July on Monday; Christmas on Sunday; Easter Sunday will be the 10th of April; Lent begins March 2d. There will be four eclipses of the sun and two of the moon. One in February, visible as a partial eclipse in the United States. The others that occur are not visible in the United States; the annular eclipse of the sun, February 23; August 19 of the sun.

—Rev. Thomas S. Wilcox, A. M., editor of the Conference News, will be prepared to eat plenty of chicken next March, as we conclude from the following which appeared in the issue of that paper for December 1: "We learn from Dr. D. S. Monroe, our genial Secretary, who is again to be the host of the Conference, that while he and his brethren have not yet began the canvass for Conference Homes, they do not anticipate any trouble in having all the brethren comfortably housed and cared for."

The Death Angel.

Mrs. Lieb, of this borough, died at 6 o'clock on Wednesday evening. Her illness had been very protracted. During her sickness she suffered greatly but bore her suffering with much resignation and patience. She seemed to be near death's door at several times previous to the hour of final dissolution. She was a most highly esteemed lady. Her husband died several years ago, but her closing days have been cheered by the loving companionship and affection of several sons and daughters. Her sons are: Prof. David M. Lieb, Principal of the Bellefonte public schools; Mr. Mitchell Lieb and Mr. Andrew Lieb. Mrs. Dartt, wife of Dr. R. L. Dartt, is a daughter, and there is one other—Miss Kate.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and a lady of saintly and lovable character. Her death will be the source of the profoundest grief to many relatives and friends, but few can so richly enjoy the consolation which comes to those that mourn as can these bereaved ones, because truly "blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

The maiden name of deceased was Margerey Gregg Mitchell. She was the daughter of David and Eliza Gregg Mitchell. She was born in this borough on the 21st of January, 1832. Her husband, Jno. D. Lieb, who died seven years ago, was a prominent citizen of Bellefonte.

The funeral occurred on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Services at her late residence. The officiating minister was Rev. D. S. Monroe, D. D.

Butchering Porkers and Eating Turkey.

Wednesday, the 24th of November, was a day long to be remembered at the happy home of Mr. E. Hoover, near Unionville. It was one of the merry butchering days, which revived to the recollections of many agreeable thoughts of such happy scenes at their own homes. Mrs. Hoover is a lady who is not only comely in appearance but kind of heart, and while the work of the day was in progress outside she did her best to prepare a dinner for relatives, friends and neighbors who had assembled.

There was business enough for all. First the sturdy arm of the dentist who was present brought eleven fine porkers to the ground, after which Mr. Samuel Hoover did the lancing and joking. He managed to keep the others in the best of cheer—causing them to indulge in much laughter—and the work was completed very quickly and easily.

When we attacked the savory turkey, dissected by the skilful hand of Doctor Bouce, we all felt particularly gleeful. As we partook of the various luxuries of the table joy, peace and good will reigned supreme in every heart.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover are noble and trustworthy people. Your correspondent feels that the writing of these lines is but a slight mark of appreciation for their kindness. They are an honor to any county. BUSINESS.

Chemical Testers.

The late number of the Coal Trade Journal records this bit of business strategy practiced in this region: The efforts of bituminous coal agents to introduce new varieties of coal into the Eastern market have given rise to lively and energetic canvassing in the past two years, and the average mill treasurer is pretty well posted as to the amount of fixed carbon, ash, etc., etc., that go to make up the chemical properties of good coal. Occasionally some of them protest against these technical methods of commending coal, even in cultured Boston. A few days ago an agent happened to run across one of these latter class and was showing him by chemical analysis how much better the coal offered was, at the same price, than the coal the mill was using. "That's all right," said the treasurer, "but I want you to understand that we've got two 'chemists' out to the works. One of 'em shovels in the coal and the other cleans the grate bars, and I guess their report will do for me."

—We notice that Sarah E. Cheesman, of Snow Shoe, this county, has been granted a patent on an invention. It is a new catch for a breast pin and is doubtless very useful and all the ladies who wear breastpins must make use of this catch. Among other patents granted during the past week to residents of Pennsylvania are for the following inventions: A miners' safety lamp, by August J. Beeker, of Mount Carmel; a thill coupling, by Annie Bratsckie, of Sharpsburg; a telephone transmiter, by Wm. Burnley, of Warren; a sash holder, by Melchior F. Chumard, of Stroudsburg; electrical appliance for dental chairs, by Levi L. Deckard, of Middletown; gas regulator, by Benjamin Franklin, of Bradford; burglar alarm, by Simeon D. Lauffer, C. F. Bilhimer and W. Williams, of Irwin; bit holder for cutter heads, by Samuel J. Shimer, of Milton; and dish tongs or plate lifter, by Robert W. Feese, of Warren.

—The long drawn out suit in court brought by Moses Thompson against the Bell Telephone and Supply Company ended on Wednesday afternoon. R. P. Allen, Esq., made a brilliant speech for the defendants and ex-Judge Orvis followed in a strong argument for the plaintiff. The verdict for the plaintiff was $269.72.

A Philipsburg Festivity.

The Ledger, of Philipsburg, reports a Thanksgiving entertainment which occurred in that place, as follows: "The select hop given by the Society young men on Thanksgiving eve in the G. A. R. Post rooms was largely attended, about thirty couples of the upper crust being present to enjoy the festivities, which began at 9:30 and lasted till 3 a.m. The music was furnished by the Houtzdale orchestra, and many of the dancers declared it was the best ever rendered at a Philipsburg hop. Among the strangers present were Misses May Emmett, of Tyrone; Bella Rankin, of Bellefonte; Ida Gearhart, of Clearfield; Hilda and Bertha Berger, of Baltimore, Md; Kittie McCullough, of Clearfield; and Messrs. Will Hepburn, of Jersey Shore; Hillary, of Philadelphia; McEwen, of Osceola; Al Marshall, of Broad Top; and Frank Aldade, of Aylmer, Canada."

—Houtzdale Observer: On Tuesday morning of last week John Creeley, a driver employed at Whiteside mine No. 6, went to work and on his second trip his team came through one of the air doors, and he not being with it, a search was instituted for him and he was found upon the road dead. An examination resulted in discovering that his head was frightfully crushed, and it was supposed that he had been caught while riding between the cars and rolled from the front to the rear of the last car between the coal and the roof. He was aged about twenty years, was a general favorite among the young men, and his sudden death causes sorrow throughout our community.

Why He Was Good.

One of the peculiarly commanding lady teachers in the public schools had an unruly pupil, and on Thursday morning she said:

"Now, my dear; if you are not good to-day I will punish you."

The child was very orderly and at the close of school the teacher said: "You have been very good to day, was it because you wished to please me?"

"No, ma'am," truthfully replied the child; "it was because I don't believe in encouraging strikers."

Officers of the Kismet Club.

One evening this week the Kismet Club met and elected the following officers: President, Scott Harris; Vice President, H. P. Harris; Secretary, Joe Montgomery; Treasurer, E. F. Cook; Trustees, Harry Bush, Harry Cook; Harry Keller; Harris Mann and Harvey Hile. It seems to us that "Harrys" prevail very numerously among the trustees, and we notice that the "given" name in each instance begins with the letter H.

—Almost every attorney in attendance at the love feast in the Court house Thursday afternoon gave utterance to his sentiments and Hon. A. O. Furst, and Aaron Williams and Clement Dale, Esqs. furnished about as much amusement as any of them. "Anything more to say on this solemn occasion?" inquired Judge Orvis, the presiding officer, and the inquiry continued to produce responses until the near approach of supper time compelled an adjournment.

—It is said that Billy Thomas, of the Railroad Depot, carried his coat under his arm when he walked from his home in Milesburg to town on Thursday morning. He carried his coat instead of wearing it to prevent the great perspiration which fast walking induces. It should be known that Mr. Thomas is a very rapid pedestrian, and if people want to calculate how fast he walked on this occasion they have only to remember that it was 10° above zero.

—An exchange says: There are four severe storms predicted for this month. That one which is now causing Polar blasts to sing around the gables is to continue until the 9th inst. The second disturber will be due about the 13th, and will continue until the 16th. On the 23d Boreas will again break out and rant around until the 27th, and again on the 30th there will be an outbreak of bad weather that will continue until the end of the month.

Letter List.

List of unclaimed letters remaining in the post office at Bellefonte, Centre Co., Pa., November 29, 1886:

Mrs. Charles Bauchy, Frank Buller, James Lyah, Miss Sue Parker, Miss Tessie Peters, W. H. Reamer, Dr. Sellers, Isaac Sayer, Mrs. Mary E. Wetters, Z. D. Zeller.

Persons inquiring for letters named in the above list will please say advertised.

JAS. H. DOBBINS, P. M.

In Court.

The proceedings which followed the trial brought by Moses Thompson vs. the Bell Telephone Company, on Wednesday, were as follows:

McClain & Cook vs, William Poorman. Verdict for plaintiff, $10.96.

Mifflin D. Snyder vs, Carnegie Bros & Co. Verdict for defendents.

A. C. Hinton & wife vs, J. Yarnell. Verdict for defendent.

—The gentlemen from a foreign country who keep that peanut, candy, etc., stand in the Diamond have been compelled to beat a temporary retreat before the blasts of Old Boreas. On Thursday, at least part of the day, their little store was closed. When they occupy their new quarters in the basement of Mr. Crider's building they will be more comfortable, and will probably be able to keep business going all the time.

Route of a New Railroad.

Brush Valley and Sugar Valley are both striving earnestly to induce the Milton and Bellefonte railroad to pass through their respective localities. Of course, it can go only one route and the one with the longest pole will probably knock the persimmon. In the opinion of the Centre Hall Reporter and of individuals who rank high in such information their inspection of both routes leads them to declare that "the Brush valley route is the more feasible of the two with far easier grades and less curvatures. The Brush valley route, after leaving the Narrows, would follow Elk creek to a short distance South of Rebersburg, from whence it would, deflect gently to the north, striking either through Madisonburg a short distance below the centre of the village or else a few hundred yards from the southern end of the town and thence on west. It is believed that the citizens of Miles township can secure the route if they show the proper public spirit.

A Tardy Carrier Pigeon.

On the 9th of July a reporter of an Edinburg evening newspaper took out with him to Ratho, a few miles from the Scottish metropolis, a carrier-pigeon to be dispatched with a message to the office giving a result of the Ratho games. The bird was duly sent on its homeward way rejoicing, but only reached its destination on Tuesday last, four months after its dispatch. It was in splendid condition, and had round its leg a portion of the message, worn, but still decipherable. Query! Where has the bird been spending its holiday?

—A great many families have recently moved to Bellefonte from other places, the gentlemen being engaged in connection with some of the new iron furnaces in process of erection. One of the newcomers is Mr. Nevling and family, who live in part of Mr. A. J. Cruse's house on Lamb street. Mr. Nevling is book keeper for the Bellefonte Iron Company.

—The M. E. church, at Millheim, which has been renovated and improved, will be reopened on the 11th and 12th insts. Rev. E. J. Gray, D. D., of Williamsport, will officiate. He seems to be a necessary feature of all church reopenings and dedications in this vicinity. Presiding Elder George Leidy is also expected to be present.

—Since Joe W. Furey, of the Lock Haven Daily Democrat, went to that place he has given up the idea of entering the ministry of the Reformed church and his present ambition is to organize a Y. M. C. A. in Lock Haven with himself as President. A laudable ambition, Joe; and let us hope it will be realized.

—The funeral services over the remains of the late Mrs. Lieb occurred at 11 o'clock Saturday. The pall bearers were J. H. McClure, John Brachbill, William Steele, William Straub, Morris Cowdrick and Geo. M. Swartz.

—John Patton Lyon, of Allegheny, whose death on Friday, Nov. 26, was recorded yesterday, was born in this county in 1815. He was the second son of John Lyon, of the firm of Lyon, Shorb & Co., Pittsburg.

Good Results in Every Case.

D. A. Bradford, wholesale paper dealer of Chattanooga, Tenn, writes, that he was seriously afflicted with a severe cold that settled on his lungs; had tried many remedies without benefit. Being induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, did so and was entirely cured by use of a few bottles. Since which time he has used it in his family for all coughs and colds with the best results. This is the experience of thousands whose lives have been saved by this wonderful Discovery.

Local Department.

—Two inches of snow on Sunday.

—Six degrees below zero Monday morning.

—Many weddings are promised in the near future.

—More moderate temperature Wenesday morning.

—J. D. L. Smith, of Lock Haven, died on Friday afternoon.

—There were a great many sleighing parties Monday night.

—It is said that there is now $20,000 in the county treasury.

—Hurry up your Christmas "ads" if you want them in this paper.

—Hundreds of house plants have been frozen during the past two weeks.

—Governor Pattison shot a three-pronged buck last week while hunting.

—The loss by fire in this country during eleven months of the year was $105,000,000.

—The members' monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A. will be held on Friday evening.

—Forty-nine men are employed in the puddling mill of the Bellefonte Iron Company.

—Rev. J. A. Ward, pastor of the M. E. church at Ridgway, died on Tuesday of last week.

—On Monday night a party of seven couples visited the Old Fort and enjoyed themselves wonderfully. They returned about 2 o'clock a. m.

—There was a good attendance on Sunday afternoon at both the meetings held for men—the meeting in the Y. M. C. A., and that in the Episcopal church, —Garman's new sled, with its capacous side seats, was out Tuesday gathering up its freight of merry people for an excursion into the rural districts.

—There are three literary societies connected with the Bellefonte Academy, all of which are attracting much interest f om the pupils who belong to them.

—Mr. Dwyer, of the Renovo News, has gone away to enjoy a vacation. Meanwhile, the Satanic Majesties in that office will edit the paper. Look out for sulphur.

—The mercury was below zero again Tuesday morning. People are becoming accustomed to Polar weather and don't mind it much more than the Esquimaux.

—Have you seen the transparent blocks of ice which are being conveyed through Bellefonte? There will surely be no better ice this season, although it may be thicker.

—Many persons depend implicitly on this paper to know whether or not entertainments which visit Bellefonte are meritorious. We never fail to inform them truthfully.

—A recent death in Philipsburg was that of John T. Calhoun, son of Mr. Jno. C. Calhoun, of that place. Deceased was 36 years of age. He was a native of Unionville, this county.

—During this month the days will continue to decrease in length until the 17th. They then remain of the same length until the 25th, when there is an increase of one minute.

—We are told that deer always take to water when close pressed. Herein deer are wiser than many men and women who take to something stronger than water under similar circumstances.

—On Friday Mrs. James Brewster, of Philipsburg, committed suicide by taking some poison. She also gave portions of the poison to her three children, one of whom is expected to die. She was subject to fits of melancholy.

—"Our American Minister," says the Philadelphia Inquirer, "is a stronger opera than "Pinafore" in music and libretto, and quite as sprightly, and we believe immediately popular. It will be given in Humes' Hall this evening.

—Our citizens sat up late Tuesday night, burning the gas and electricity, in their eager? perusal of the President's message. It's an ill wind that blows no one good" and the message served to increase the bills for artificial illumination.

—The sleighing is passably good in some parts of the town where the steam heat has not melted the snow all away. In the country it is said not to be so good, the great quantity of mud with which the falling snow was mixed rendering the roads rough and disagreeable.

—There is a movement on foot to drill for gas in Clinton county. Indeed, the movement has progressed so far that the company at work have already bored down several hundred feet. The spot where the attempt is being made is five miles north of Renovo, on Drury's run.

—The children of the public schools are always finding something. On Tuesday they found a silk hankerchief. It is brown in color with blue plentifully mixed in the borders. Another "find" they made some time ago (a steel key) is also in our possession. Both these articles can be obtained by calling at this office.

A Visit from Bishop Rulison.

The recently elected assistant bishop of the Central Pennsylvania Diocese of the P. E. church, Rt. Rev. Nelson Sommerville Rulison, delivered the sermon during the regular service in the church here Friday evening. The Bishop is a large, handsome, courtly gentleman, florid in appearance, graceful in action and gesture, and his voice deep and musical and susceptible of all the varied tones which contribute to render oratory impressive.

In the two sermons which we have heard him deliver we have been impressed with the practical and commonsense sentiments of his sermons. Jewels of wisdom they are in settings of gold; told so pleasantly and yet conveying so much of real conviction. He announced for a text the words in St. Matthew 21:10, 11, "And when He was come into Jerusalem, all the city was moved saying, Who is this? And the multitude said, This is Jesus, the prophet of Nazareth of Galilee." From this he wrought out in effective language the thought that even Bellefonte should be moved by the advent of Jesus. A great end is gained when men can be moved. "Let not your hearts be troubled" by the flippant and light discussion of those subjects which we so much respect. Running through the literature and talk and private study of these subjects is a vein of seriousness which will accomplish good. He who earnestly inquires "Who is this?" will surely learn to the good of his soul. He spoke of Christ as the author and source of all the good in the world. In a manner more striking than we ever heard it before he spoke of the part that children fill in the Christian religion. Plato alluded to them only in view of the fact that they will grow to be men and women. Shakespeare did not write nor Milton sing of them. The teaching of Christ arouse an interest in children as children. Visit the book stalls at the approaching Christmas time to see how much of our literature is for childred. Christ's power is evinced in the transformations of character which it effects. The giddy are made sedate, the impure are made chaste. All of us have seen this result. The Bishop earnestly wished that the coming of Christ might move the congregation before him.

A Few Days at Lewisburg.

Secretary Shaffer, Francis Speer and Charles Rodgers composed the trio who represented the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. in Lewisburg at the district convention on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. They bring back a pleasant report. They consider the Lewisburg people the best in this country. The citizens of Lewisburg were profoundly impressed with the delegates and this feeling was fully reciprocated. In brief, it was a delightful occasion—one which benefited the delegates and will greatly aid in accelerating the work of the Lewisburg association.

That Christian virtue of hospitality which is dwelt upon with so much stress in the Book of Books certainly has a grand exponent in the people with whom our delegates cast their lot. If our delegates tell the truth (and of that there is no question) they were so well entertained at the homes that they found it difficult to tear themselves away in time to attend the stated meetings, and the meetings proved so attractive they were loth to return again to their respective stopping places.

The religious work of the convention was extremely profitable, the ground apparently being well prepared for the seed to be sown. All the meetings were well attended by the people of the town, who gave the young men their earnest cooperation.

Perhaps the Cold Weather Caused It.

From a letter received on Monday from Loveville we regret to learn that considerable ill health prevails at present in that generally healthy locality. For instance, we note these:

Mrs. Mary Wilson, who has for quite a long time been suffering from a severe attack of fever, is slowly convalescing.

Mr. James Ebbs, who is an aged gentleman, is gradually failing in health and strength and his friends are much concerned about him.

Mrs. Eliza Taylor is ill with a severe attach of typhoid fever.

What is described as "protracted neuralgia" is the illness which afflicts Mr. Benjamin Buck, a respected citizen of Centre Line. He is suffering greatly.

A short time ago, Mr. Fink, father of William H. Fink, clerk in the Loveville store, arrived at the home of his son for a brief stay. His hopes of a pleasant visit were dissipated by an attack of illness. He continued to become worse until it was deemed necessary to send for his relatives, which was accordingly done.

Our wish for all these people is that they may speedily recover.

—H. A. McKee, of this place, advertises a very fine farm for sale. It is located in Half Moon valley and almost encircles the village of Stormstown. It is thus accessible to schools, churches and all modern conveniences and advantages. Terms moderate.

—The skating and coasting on Friday and Saturday were very excellent. Prof. James P. Hughes, of the Academy, was among those who tested the ice with skates.

Pavements and Hose House.

ARE TWO OF THE SUBJECTS DISCUSSED BY COUNCIL MONDAY NIGHT.

That off set in the sidewalk on Linn street is to be abolished and a lot is to be purchased for the site of an engine house. Those are the principal measures adopted by the borough council Monday evening.

Mr. Lawrence Brown did not arrive until late and so H. H. Harshberger, Esq., was made president pro tem. There were no verbal communications from citizens, but Mr. George Valentine and Mr. Green were present to answer any questions that might be asked regarding the electric light. They gave such information as was requested on the subject and then departed. Very few of the committees reported, but Will Hillibish, who is chairman of the Water committee, said that 150,000 gallons of water is used each day in excess of the quantity used at this time last year. This is doubtless owing to the extreme cold.

The subject of the walk along the north side of Linn street, particularly the offset in the pavement between the properties of James Milliken, Esq., and Major Wm. F. Reynolds, was generally discussed and a resolution was adopted that the Street committee be instructed to raise Mr. Milliken's pavement to the grade established from Blanchard's corner, by D. M. Butts, the borough engineer.

Mr. Ed. Brown, Jr., succeeded in centering the attention of council upon the long-discussed topic of a site for a hose house in the south part of the town. The pros and cons of all the possible and impossible locations on Bishop and Logan streets came in for attention and what is known as the Kelley lot, which had been negotiated for, received most favor. A motion that the lot be purchased was carried unanimously. It is located on Logan street, back of the Butts House, and is 30x50 ft. in dimensions. The price to be paid is $400. Miss Julia Kelley is the owner.

Comic Opera.

The Leland Opera Company began their three-nights engagement here on Monday evening in "Our American Minter." The audience which greeted their first appearance was not large and it was largely composed of men. We cannot account for the fact that so few ladies were in the audience, for we can assure them that nothing occurred that could offend the taste of the most refined. The costuming is all that modesty can suggest and the behavior of the persons composing the company was as correct as possible.

Now, we assure our readers that this company is composed of more than ordinarily good talent in all respects. The singing is better than that of either the Wilbur or Kyle opera companies, and the performance perfectly chaste. All will agree with us that they furnish a beautiful and pleasing entertainment, which all can enjoy. Do you want good music? Several of the ladies and gentlemen have excellent voices. Do you want amusement? Three or four members of the company are constantly engaged in supplying rollicking fun, and succeed admirably. Do you want excitement? Well, on Monday evening they represented a ship on fire, and it was positively thrilling.

The Great Change.

It was on Saturday last that the death of Mrs. William P. Fisher, of Unionville, occurred. She was the wife of the well-known nurseryman of that place. Her age was about 65 years. She had been ill five or six weeks, and the announcement of her death, though not unexpected, will be heard with deep sorrow.

Mrs. Fisher was the daughter of Mr. Thomas Wilson, of Half Moon township. Her father was a prominent and influential citizen and was at one time President of the Hollidaysburg bank. Mrs. Andrew Shivery, a sister of deceased, resides near this place. Mrs. Fisher leaves an aged husband and a large family of sons and daughters, all of whom have advanced into maturity. She was highly respected, and her place in the community and her tender care and affection as a mother and wife will be remembered gratefully for many years. She has changed this mortal life for immortality, and her life will be a beacon light for those who are following in her footsteps.

—The Tyrone correspondent of the Altoona Times is hereby informed that the only person who ever wrote anything for this paper in defense of the Salvation Army is still actively connected with it and contributes as frequently as ever to its columns. We supposed that the aforesaid correspondent was converted by the Army long ago, and hence there was no reason for us to defend it. And then, you know, one intelligent defense is sufficient to off-set a dozen such weak, silly attacks as appeared in the correspondence. Several months have elapsed since the correspondent has contributed anything worthy our notice, which accounts for the fact that we have not noticed him. We did not imagine, however, that he would take it so hard.

—It is announced, semi-officially, that Gen. Beaver will deliver his lecture, "From Ocean to Ocean," in Philipsburg soon, for the benefit of the Aid Society in connection with the Presbyterian church of that place.

One Idea at a Time.

On Sunday evening we heard Rev. W. H. H. Snyder, the new pastor of the Reformed church. His ministrations on the first Sunday of his pastorate greatly pleased the congregations who listened to him. His sermons were characterized by originality of ideas, beauty and force of language and attractive rhetoric. His delivery is easy and graceful, not involving any undue physical exertion. He selected for his text five words from Philippians 3:13, "This one thing I do." He said that all the great men were men of one idea. That is, they devoted all their energies to the accomplishment of a single object. He took for illustration Noah, whose great object was to build the Ark, and Abraham, who devoted all his energies to but one imortant purpose. This is true not alone of regenerated men, but of all, Demosthenes was the prince of orators because he devoted all his powers to the cultivation of oratory. Sir Isaac Newton was another character used for illustration. Then he pictured Paul's grand forgetfulness of things of the past, devoting all his immense energies to the accomplishment of the duty before him. In his favorite figure as a racer, he dropped all that would hinder him in his progress, girded himself for the race, was undisturbed by the plaudits of the multitude and successfully made his way onward. Then the speaker enforced on his hearers the desirableness of singleness of purpose in life, especially in their Christian work.

Good for the Farmers.

The State College has sent to us bulletins Nov. 15 and 16. We shall make use of them the coming season by taking advantage of the information they give, and our readers may expect, as a result, that our dry and sterile farm will blossom as the rose. We notice that the Professor of Agricultural Chemistry in that institution has consented to examine samples of all seeds sent to him for their benefit. Send him specimens if you desire to know whether the seeds are worth anything. Accompany the specimens with a statement of: 1. Name or label of seed. 2, Name and address of producer or importer. 3. Name and address of dealer from whom they are purchased, 4. Date of taking the sample. 5. Selling price, per pound or bushel. 6. Known or reputed age of seed. 7. Number of packages from which the sample is taken. Send with each sample any private circular or statement that accompanies the seed or is used in its sale.

Seeds may be sent by mail or otherwise, but must in all cases be prepaid and plainly addressed to the Professor of Agricultural chemistry, State College, Centre county, Pa.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

In pursuance of its annual custom the Pennsylvania Railroad Company announces that Christmas and New Year excursion tickets will be sold between all the principal ticket stations on the main line and branches. The holiday season is the one period of the year most exclusively devoted to the interchange of social visits and the enjoyment of pleasure trips. In order to encourage this custom and to offer all possible benefit to those who desire to indulge in holiday pleasures and festivities, the Company reduces the rates during the favored period. Excursion tickets will be sold on Dec. 23d, 24th, 25th, 30th, and 31st, 1886, and Jan. 1st, 1887, good to return until Jan. 4th, inclusive.

—The name of the man who was killed by a freight train near Unionville a week ago has not yet been ascertained. We are informed that his hair was dark (this paper at the time said it was light) and that it was very thin on the front part of his head. A gentleman of this county, on reading the description given by this paper, throught it tallied with that of his brother whose whereabouts he did not know at the time, and he had the body raised, but was pleased to find that the dead man had dark hair where as his brother's hair is light in color. It is supposed by some that the dead man is a person who at one time was an employe of the Bellefonte Nail Company, but we have not heard whether any efforts have been made to follow up this clue.

Those who are Ill.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Louis Doll, of this borough, had a very severe hemorrhage. We learn that he has revived from the prostrating effects of such serious illness, and is regaining strength. We earnestly hope that Mr. Doll will entirely recover. He is one of the best shoemakers in Bellefonte, and has quite a large family dependent upon him.

Edmund Blanchard, Esq., a prominent lawyer of this place, is ill with a trouble of the heart. He is the attorney for the railroad company and is a citizen of eminence and influence. We trust that his affliction may not be as serious as is at present apprehended.

—Ice cutting began Monday morning. The crystal blocks are six inches thick and very solid. The quality of the ice was never surpassed. We believe that ice-cutting on December 6 beats the record. The present weather is rapidly increasing the thickness of the ice. It may be well for those who want to fill their ice houses to begin now. We believe the Messrs. Garbrick and Joshua Folk are at work to-day cutting ice.

The Closing work of Court.

Proceedings of court which this paper has not heretofore published are as follows:

Simon P. Ruble vs. Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Centre County. On the 1st of December a jury was called and sworn and on the 2d the jurors were withdrawn and dismissed and the cause was settled upon the following terms: Defendants to pay plaintiff one thousand dollars within ninety days, without interest. Out of this sum the plaintiff is to pay all costs, including defendant's bill. Said bill, however, is not to exceed one hundred dollars.

In the case of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company vs. A. M. McClain & Co., the defendants confessed judgment in favor of plaintiff for $500, with stay of execution for six months.

John Stover vs. Margaret Rider and John Rider, represented by Beaver & Gephart for plaintiffs and Orvis and Keller for defendants. The defendants confessed judgment in favor of the plaintiff for the land described in the writ, subject to the provisions of a written agreement on the day filed.

Campbell Brothers vs. D. W. Holt, O. P. Jones and Samuel P. Griffith. Verdict for plaintiffs, $2,588.54.

—The engineer corps engaged in making surveys for a railroad from Mill Hall through Nittany Valley are still at work driving stakes and locating the route. Farmer Wallace Brown was in town Friday and as he warmed himself at the Irvin House gave it as his opinion that the men are locating the line of the Watsontown and Bellefonte road, which he thinks will come through Sugar Valley to Mill Hall, via. the Washington Furnace route.—Lock Haven Express.

—The particular usefulness of a moustache was illustrated Monday a. m. The writer had a slugging match with some firewood, a piece of which impudently flew up and struck him on the upper lip. His moustache averted all disastrous consequences. Now if Robert Burdette don't incorporate this incident in his lecture on the "Rise and Fall of the moustache," he makes a great omission in that piece of literature.

—It is stated that Mr. Andrew Carnegie has abandoned his Scottish castle project on the mountain and will dispose of the property purchased at the Summit. The death of his mother and brother have caused this change in his plans. The castle, it is said, was originally conceived by Mr. Carnegie to please his mother and now that she has gone he has no incentive to proceed with it.

—The storms of this fall have been particularly distressing to vessels on the lakes. Among the vessels which fared the most severely was the Ariadne, from New Castle, Ont., bound for Oswego, N. Y., with barley. While drifting in the storm she struck a reef and all her crew, except two seamen, perished.

—Why not buy overcoats for the police, if there is any money for such an investment? If they wear overcoats of ordinary kind their new uniforms are hid from view. Great coats to correspond with their uniforms would be appropriate—for instance, dark blue chinchilla cloth.

—Lock Haven has an avenue bearing the name of Bellefonte. Everything of importance which occurs in Lock Haven happens on Bellefonte avenue. There is, apparently, only one other thoroughfare of any importance in the town; that is Henderson street.

Personal Pencilings.

Clem Dale, Esq., Sundayed in the vicinity of Oak Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Moyer, of Sandy Ridge, spent Sunday in Bellefonte.

County Superintendent D. M. Wolfe has been very ill, but is improving.

Railroad Superintendent E. B. Westfall captured a deer last week while hunting.

Miss Mary Wilson, of Harrisburg, is visiting at the residence of Mr. Edward Brown.

Judge Chas. Mayer, of Lock Haven, was an arrival in Bellefonte Wednesday evening.

Mr. Will Tyson, of Philipsburg, occupied a seat in Humes' Hall on Monday evening.

Rev. R. Hamill, D. D., of Oak Hall, alighted from the morning train from that place Tuesday.

Mrs. J. A. Woodcock, of Linn street, returned on Friday at 4.22 p. m., after three weeks absence.

Mr. C. G. McMillen, of the Brockerhoff House, departed Saturday evening for Ohio to visit his mother.

Dr. C. M. Boardner, the gentlemanly and good-looking dentist, was an arrival in Bellefonte on Saturday.

D. F. Fortney Esq, and Col. D. H. Hastings attracted attention among the notables in Tyrone on Monday.

Rev. Mr. Brill, of Port Matilda, was an arrival on the 9:32 train Saturday. He came to attend the funeral of Mrs. Lieb.

Hon. L. A. Mackey, of Lock Haven, who was at the depot Wednesday, took a seat in the mail train east for his home.

Mr. Decker, of Kansas, a former citizen of this county, is at present visiting here. He has been in Kansas for twenty years.

Mr. S. A. Taggart, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., came to town on the Lemont train this morning with Secretary Shaeffer.

Mr. Will Auchenbach, of Williamsport, came up on Saturday evening to spend Sunday with his parents here. He departed Monday morning.

Dr. Robert Hayes is entertaining his brother from Mifflinburg. The young gentleman is about as tall as the Doctor and equally good-looking Capt. C. W. VanValin, of Unionville, arrived in Bellefonte Saturday, and walked up High street with the next adjutant general of Pennsylvania.

Dr. C. M. Boardner will open a dental office in the rooms over Reynolds' Bank. Dr. Boardner is a very excellent young man and has a high reputation as a dentist.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McCarty, of Cincinnati, arrived in Bellefonte on Wednesday, and are guests at Mrs. James McSuly's residence on Logan street. Mrs. McCarty was formerly Mrs. Howard.

Mr. J. W. Blair, a young gentleman teaching school at Fillmore, was in town on Saturday. He says that the subject of chief interest in Fillmore is the prospective change of postmaster. There are two candidates for the position.

Major Brown, of Erie, who is a member of Gen. Bever's staff, visited Bellefonte on Tuesday and in company with Col. D. S. Keller gave us the pleasure of a brief call. He is a soldierly looking gentleman and very agreeable socially.

Hon. Seth T. Yocum, an ex-Congressman of this district and now living in Tennessee, is at present in Bellefonte. The gentleman, who is handsome and talented, created quite a political excitement in this Congressional district at one time, when he was elected to Congress on the Greenback ticket over Ex-Gov. Andrew G. Curtin. He was for a long time the law partner in the strong legal firm of Bush, Yocum, & Hastings. At that time he was a lawyer of eminence and an impressive speaker. We believe he has not practiced the law recently, but is engaged in the lumber and tannery business in Tennessee, which he finds more remunerative than legal pursuits.

—On Tuesday afternoon we walked as far as the glass works to see how the new buildings are progressing. We find that the long row of substantial frame structures on the left of the railroad, going from town, are completed. These include the pot room, cutting room and about all the necessary structures excepting the main factory. A great many men are now at work there. The carpenters are getting the lumber ready for the main factory, which will soon be erected. If weather, no more severe than the present, continues for two weeks the main factory will be advanced to completion. Another force of employes are at work breaking up the German clay and making the necessary pots. A spirit of thoroughness and go-ahead-activeness refreshing to see prevails at the institution.

—The bright moonlight and crisp frost rendered Tuesday night more than usually fine.
